LERWICK, Shetland Isles (Reuters)—Queen Elizabeth arrived here today aboard the Royal yacht Britannia for the first visit to the islands of northeast Scotland by a British monarch.

The last visit by a reigning monarch of any country was in 1263, when the galleys of the Norse King Haakon anchored here.

SOUTHAMPTON, England (Reuters)—Passengers became crew members today as the strike-hit Cunard liner Sylvania left port here for Canada on a "do-it-yourself" voyage.

Some 60 of almost 500 passengers volunteered to work for regular seamen's pay—aboard the 22,000-ton Montreal-bound vessel after about half its 440 crew members walked off in a spreading British seamen's strike.

The liner's master, Capt. William Law, signed up the volunteers after calling an emergency meeting of the passengers and asking if there was anyone who didn't want to sail. The crowd roared "no" and he called for volunteers to help get the Sylvania under way.

TORONTO (CP)—Two Canadian authors contributed to the spread of adultery, prostitution and venereal disease, the director of the Health League of Canada says.

In an editorial in the league's magazine, Health, Dr. Gordon Bates said novelists Morley Callaghan and Hugh MacLennan "should have their heads read."

The authors had argued before sessions Judge T. A. Fontaine that the Lawrence novel was not obscene. The judge subsequently banned the book in Quebec.

Interviewed today, Dr. Bates said he thinks Callaghan, MacLennan and many other novelists are mixed up with smatterings of learning from Sigmund Freud and Havelock Ellis.

"I believe that one of the main causes of increasing adultery is the influence some English professors—and psychiatrists on the staffs of universities—have on their students," he said.

"There's a saying that a little knowledge is a dangerous thing," Dr. Bates said. "Novelists are using Freud's and Ellis' teaching without knowing much about them."

Mr. Callaghan, also interviewed, said Freud is having little effect on novelists now. The only ones influenced by Freud "are psychologists who are trying to turn into novelists."

PUC Reverses Decision Orders PNR Hearing

To Clear Status On Rail Project Before Election

By FRANK RUTTER

The Public Utilities Commission today announced a public hearing Sept. 2 to consider the status of the Pacific Northern Railway.

The announcement threw the political world into a tizzy.

It called on the PNR to show cause why it should not require a certificate from the PUC before starting construction.

It revived a legal hassle which was temporarily quelled June 28 when Premier Bennett chopped down a tree to mark the start of the 700-mile Wenner-Gren railway to the Yukon border.

TEST OF POWER

It paved the way for a test of the power of the Public Utilities Act against the Railways Act, under which the PNR claims to have started construction.

On July 5, the PUC issued a lengthy statement of reasons for dismissing a PNR application for a certificate of convenience and necessity.

Now it seeks a hearing to establish whether or not the company is legally bound to request a certificate.

"COLLUSION"

CCF Leader Robert Strachan immediately branded the PUC's latest move "collusion" with the Social Credit Party.

"Any such hearings will be a hoax and are intended only as window dressing for the Social-Credit political machine in this election campaign," he said.

"It is only a few weeks since we were told that no hearings were necessary."

He said he would be unable to attend because of election commitments.

NO STRINGS

PUC member Percy E. George denied any election strings.

"The date was set before we knew of the election," he said. "By coincidence about 48 hours after we made up our minds the Sept. 12 announcement came along."

Dr. H. F. Angus, chairman of the PUC, and architect of the July 5 statement, is in Terrace today, and couldn't be reached by the Times.

The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. Sept. 2 in the Vancouver Public Library.

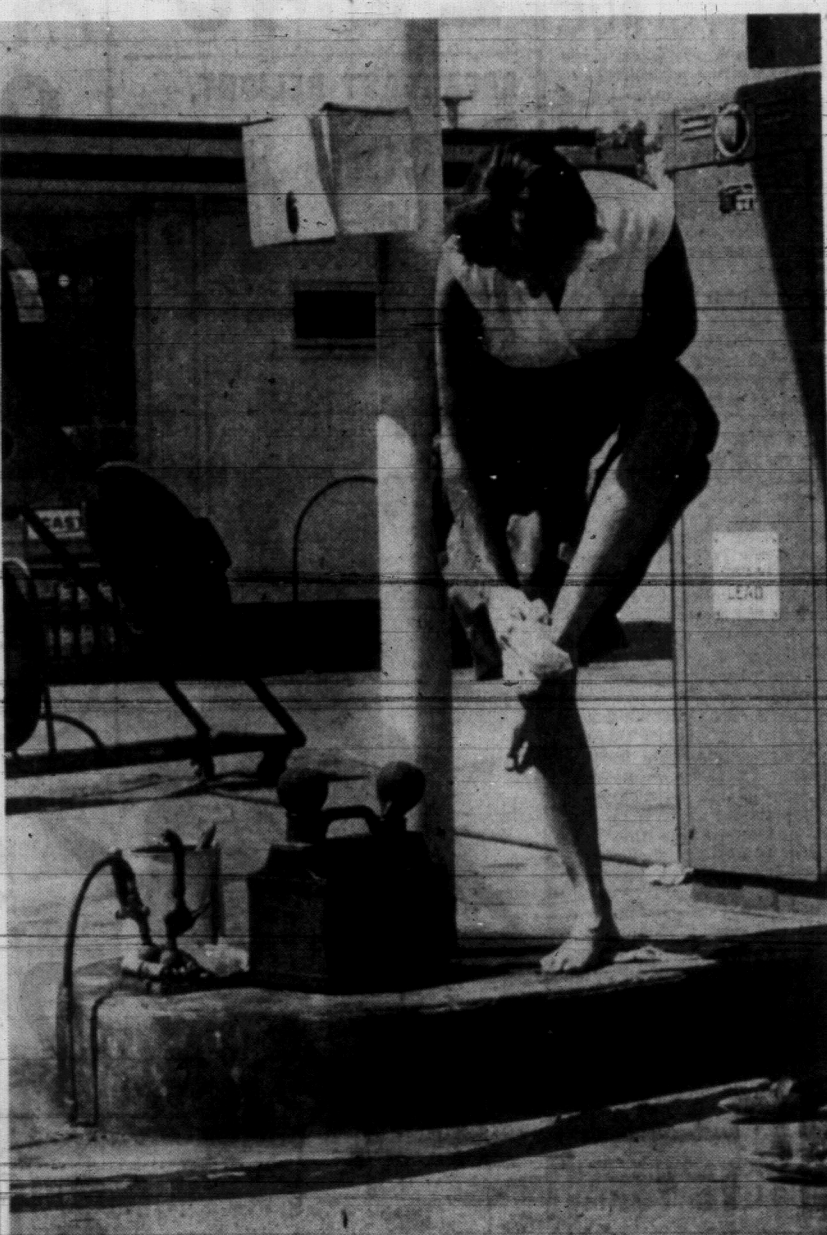

Mr. George said it would be "up to the chairman of the meeting at that time" to decide if briefs could be presented by "interested parties."

He added: "It is not a matter of deciding whether it is desirable to put a railway up there."

The hearing is to decide the legal status of the railway and the work it has so far accomplished.

The July 5 PUC statement answered a challenge by Mr. Strachan for the PUC to step

Woods Closely Guarded

B.C. Forest Service rangers and their staffs today patrolled wooded areas of Vancouver Island south of Bowser to evict campers still in the woods in spite of a forest closure which went into effect at midnight.

There are plenty of organized and private campsites open to holidayers, but many popular spots have become illegal for camping. All campers have been sent away from a spot on Chehalis River, well upstream from the highway, but swimming is still permitted by the Trans-Canada Highway bridge over the river.

Rangers today checked all side roads along the Shawnigan-Port Renfrew Road for campers, and made sure there were no camps at the Sooke potholes. Swimming, however, is still allowed at the potholes because they are reached by public road.

Marine parks in the Gulf Islands are open, but haphazard camping by small boat operators on the many beaches of the island is prohibited. All Gulf Islands up to and including Texada Island are affected by the closure order.

"The number of fires we have had in the past few days indicated that a closure was called for," said a B.C. Forest Service spokesman.

"EXPLOSIVE"

Forests Minister Ray Williston authorized the general forest closure in the two most heavily-populated zones of the Vancouver Forest District Tuesday afternoon.

What forest officials called "explosive conditions" and a flare-up of old fires prompted the move—first closure this year.

The closure means no one may enter woods within zones 1 and 9, on the Island and Mainland, for travel picnicking, berry picking, camping, or any other recreational activity.

Only travel along public highways is allowed, and camping in supervised provincial park sites. Lake fishing is allowed only where there is public access—a highway—for a boat. Boaters must land only at this point.

A parks branch official said today all Island campsites in

Defeat Faces Plan to Drop CCF Leader

REGINA (CP)—Strong grass-roots opposition to a proposed CCF leadership compromise set leadership aspirants running harder than ever today.

The weight of opposition—evident from Ontario and Saskatchewan delegations Tuesday night—seemed certain to block passage of the proposal of the CCF national council that the socialist party's national convention abolish the title of national leader.

The Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia delegations were reported to be against the constitutional change. In addition, it was evident that CCF members of parliament were solidly opposed.

Gov't Troops on March To Crush Laos Revolt

(Times News Services)

BANGKOK, Thailand—Royalist troops were reported marching on the administrative capital of Vientiane in Laos today to put down a leftist pocket revolt against the pro-Western government.

The counter-attack was being mobilized from Luang Prabang, official residence of King Savang Vatthana, about 140 miles to the north of Vientiane, the reports said.

A later report here said there was fighting in Vientiane and shots had been heard for about two hours.

It was not known how many troops the rebels had at their command. However, information reaching Bangkok through diplomatic channels said they had armed all commercial aircraft in Vientiane and had control of all strategic facilities in the city.

The rebels accused the Somsanith government of corruption and of wrongly steering the tiny kingdom, a neighbor of Communist North Viet Nam and Red China, toward the western camp and away from neutrality.

The leader of the revolution served notice today that all foreign troops must leave the kingdom and foreign bases will be liquidated.

EXPULSION OF TROOPS

"We will expel all foreign soldiers from the country immediately," said paratrooper captain Koung Lae, commander of the paratroop battalion based in Vientiane.

Keep 8 Secretaries Busy

DON'T TALK PILLS AT 86

NEW YORK (CP)—Don't retire and start discussing pills with the fellow next door. Keep working—say, at the rate of seven days a week.

Once in a while, if you ever get the chance and like such things as fishing, try to hook a few brook trout.

All that is a time-tested formula offered by a man who has found it works very well, indeed: Herbert Hoover.

The former president observed his 86th birthday today—at his desk working as usual aided by eight full-time secretaries.

Hoover took time out Tuesday to give an accounting of his activities during the last year. They included:

Attendance at 35 public functions, delivery of 20 speeches (without a ghost writer), answering 21,195 letters, acceptance of 23 awards, 14,000 miles of travel, television appearances, cornerstone layings and the raising of $1,200,000 or more for his pet project, the Boys' Clubs of America.

"I hope you will conclude that I have not ceased work," he told reporters in his Waldorf-Astoria hotel suite.

His ruddy complexion, sparkling blue eyes, frequent witticisms and speedy replies to questions gave an impression of stalwart physical condition. His only apparent difficulty was with his hearing at times.

AILING AMATEUR BANDIT ACCOMPLISHES PURPOSE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The gaunt little man shoved a gun and a note at teller Marjorie Sances.

The note said: "No alarm. Give me your cash."

Mrs. Sances pushed over a stack of bills.

"No, not that much," he said.

"Just $5."

She handed him the top bill, a ten.

The gunman wrote on a slip of paper: "Received $10. Dr. Scott."

Then he walked out the door of the Savings and Loan Company into the arms of two policemen.

Dr. Gordon Elmer Scott, 61, once a $30,000-a-year chiropractor in Beverly Hills, says he tipped off police because "I wanted to be caught."

He says he believed the medical care he would receive in a federal prison was his only hope for life.

He has lost one eye from cancer and says he has cirrhosis of the liver—an ailment he blames on his consumption of a fifth of liquor a day.

After being booked on suspicion of robbery, he learned that he may not get into prison after all. The FBI has decided not to prosecute.

The case has been turned over to the city prosecutor and Dr. Scott, a first offender, may even be placed on probation.

Even so, he'll get the medical help he needs. Social workers have promised medical and psychiatric care, in or out of jail.

provincial parks are still open, such as Englishman River and Little Qualicum Falls camping areas.

They all are supervised by attendants living in the park, and regular patrols are made through the grounds.

All public and private campsites in the Courtenay-Cornwall, Campbell River and Sayward forest areas are still open to camping, as are Tofino and Ucluelet on the west coast.

There is no camping along the west coast road east of Kennedy Lake, however. Spruce Lake and Great Central Lake are within the closure area.

All industrial operations on the southern tip of the Island and in the Fraser Valley must shut down in wooded areas.

Land clearing, mining, construction and logging are forbidden within half a mile of a forested area.

MUST BE GUARDED

Any open burners in the zones must be guarded night and day.

The forest service suspended campfire permits in the two zones on July 21.

Zone 1, the southern Island, falls within a line from Bowser on the east coast, to the Alberni, and from there to Port Renfrew. Included are Victoria, Duncan, Nanaimo, Qualicum, Lake Cowichan and the Gulf Islands.

Zone 9 covers the entire Fraser Valley east of Hope and north to Squamish, including Chilliwack, Harrison Lake and part of Garibaldi Park.

Vancouver Island had its share of fires Tuesday, with new blazes at Campbell River, Parksville, Nanaimo, and Langford, and the hazard still is extreme. All fires were either extinguished or are under control.

Vancouver Forest District, which includes all of Vancouver Island, had nine new fires and 26 burning.

Last closure on these areas was in August, 1958, height of the worst fire season so far, when timber valued at $8,000,000 was destroyed.

That year cost the government $4,600,000 in firefighting. This year's costs already top $3,500,000.

that the company was proceeding under that jurisdiction.

The premier officiated at the "start" of construction June 23 two days before an agreement between his government and the interests of Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren expired.

The agreement set a June 30 deadline for start of construction.

UNDECIDED

Mr. George said today: "It's undecided from a legal point of view whether the company has engaged in or is about to engage in construction."

He said two basic difficulties facing the PUC are: At what stage the PNR becomes a utility under the Public Act, and if the work done so far affects that.

And the fact that no other railway has ever applied to or fallen under the PUC's jurisdiction before.

"For weeks we have been pondering on how to proceed on this proposition," said Mr. George.

The earlier PUC statement said it was not considering seeking a certificate because "action by order on its own motion in the absence of a complaint would serve no useful purpose at this time."

No complaint about the PNR starting work has been received.

But Mr. George stressed that the Sept. 2 hearing was not on the feasibility of the railway, but on its legal status as a utility.

If it is a utility and qualifies for a certificate of convenience a separate hearing will probably be called later to decide the award of such a certificate.

Farm Payment Speeches
Block Pension Move
(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—A flock of Progressive Conservative MPs gleefully clambered on the government's $42,000,000 aid-to-farmers bandwagon in the Commons Tuesday.

As everyone expected, the supplementary estimate to cover the payments was finally approved by all parties.

Thirty Conservative MPs got a word one way or another in the debate—against three Liberals and two CCF MPs.

For government supporters, the day-long farm-aid debate was a happy harmony of gratitude and appreciation for the government's decision to help farmers whose incomes are lagging because of high costs and a low world price on their grain.

But another possible motive for the flood of praise was pointed out by Paul Martin (L., Essex East), who accused government speakers of talking to thwart an opposition bid to boost old-age pensions.

Under House rules, the next item of business would have been the supply motion, which the government must make to bring main departmental spending estimates before the Commons on Mondays and Tuesdays. On other days it can do so without a motion.

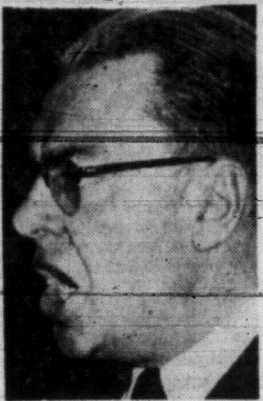

Two weeks ago the CCF amended such a motion to call for a $20 increase to $75 in the monthly pension payable to everyone at age 70. A Liberal sub-amendment sought higher pensions in co-operation with the provinces and a national contributory pension scheme. A prolonged debate on the bill of rights kept the supply motion out of the picture last week.

Debate Kept on to Closing Hour

By debating the supplementary estimate right through to the closing hour Tuesday night, the Conservatives kept the embarrassing old-age pension amendment out of the Commons.

The farm-aid discussion was restricted fairly tightly to the issue of acreage payments. Many of the backbench speeches merely endorsed the acreage payments, congratulated the government for making them and took a fast swipe at the Opposition parties.

Paul Martin and Samuel Boulanger (L.—Drummond-Athabaska) did most of the Liberal opposition's attack on the acreage measure. Mr. Martin chided the government for keeping farmers waiting for 18 months before offering some assistance and called the aid program a "mere bagatelle."

PAUL MARTIN
... angered by delay

Mr. Boulanger said farmers would have to ask for further payments again next year.

Tories Say Whole Economy Aided

Ken More (PC—Regina) said the payments would spread throughout the whole western business community, generating $294,000,000 worth of business as it filtered through the economy.

J. E. Pascoe (PC—Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) said the $1-an-acre payment will do more than just help western farmers—it will help the whole Canadian economy.

The divorce bills blocked by a CCF filibuster for five months were passed unanimously in bloc.

The number of bills totalled 452. All had previously been approved by the Senate.

The CCF lifted the blockade Monday night but warned that filibusters may occur again in future sessions unless divorces are removed from Parliament.

So far, their verbiage weighs 27 pounds four ounces—and that's in the unbound, newsprint version of Hansard.

On the average, each of the 265 MPs has spoken 1,640 ounces of words—roughly 29,000 words apiece. And many backbenchers hardly talk at all.

"There's about 1,000 words to a page," said Hansard editor W. W. Buskard. "Two or three more sittings will put the record past 8,000 pages—so that's about 8,000,000 words."

ATOMIC WASTE MISSED BY VIOLENT BLASTS

BOSTON (AP)—Fire Tuesday set off three explosions amidst stored drums of metallic waste on an open pier about 200 feet from radioactive atomic waste.

There were fears, at first, the blast had scattered radioactive material.

However, tests by atomic energy experts, coast guardsmen and state public health officials later proved negative.

One fireman was tossed 75 feet into the air and landed in the burning debris and scattered drums containing a metallic element identified as zirconium.

It's simple how quickly one may lose pounds of unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this home recipe yourself. It's easy, no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug store and ask for four ounces of Yaran Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Take two tablespoons full a day as needed and follow the Naran Plan.

If your first purchase does not show you a simple easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't disappear from neck, chin, arms, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles just return the empty bottle for your money back. Follow this easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

FOR ARMS TALKS

Mr. K Hints He'll Attend UN Session

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The 82-nation UN disarmament commission has been called to meet next Tuesday afternoon to consider the failure of the Geneva disarmament talks.

Luis Padilla Nervo of Mexico, chairman of the commission, scheduled the meeting in response to a request the United States made July 22. Canada supported the move.

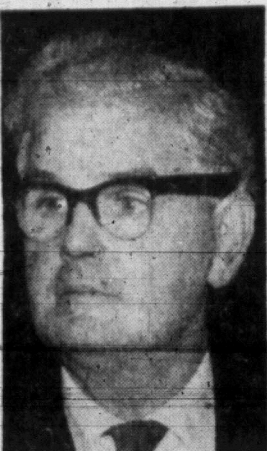

Soviet deputy foreign minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov told delegates from the neutral nations countries that the nine Soviet-bloc nations would boycott any disarmament commission meeting and hoped they would do the same.

Despite Kuznetsov's urging, most neutrals are expected to attend the session, and some Western diplomats think the Communists will show up also. The Russians proposed that discussion of disarmament be deferred until the General Assembly opening Sept. 20 and that the 82 heads of government attend to provide a summit discussion of disarmament and other major world problems.

SOVIET PROPOSAL

Soviet Premier Khrushchev plugged this idea again Tuesday in Pravda, the Soviet Communist party newspaper. Khrushchev said he would like to represent the Soviet Union at the fall assembly and would consider it a great honor to be present for the disarmament discussion.

The Soviet proposal for a summit assembly meeting got the cold reception from the U.S. government that was generally expected in the wake of Khrushchev's walkout on the Paris summit meeting, and his cancellation of President Eisenhower's visit to Russia.

CUBAN ARCHBISHOP THREATENS CHURCH CLOSURE

Youths Attack Worshippers

HAVANA (AP)—President Osvaldo Dorticos assured the Cuban people early today that Premier Fidel Castro's regime will continue "respecting all religious cults" despite "provocations."

Speaking at a post-midnight labor rally, the president did not specifically mention last Sunday's Roman Catholic pastoral letter, read at most Catholic churches in Cuba, warning of the advance of communism in Cuba.

Also, he didn't refer to the threat Tuesday by the archbishop co-adjutor of Havana to close all Catholic churches on the island and suspend church services unless the government stops pro-Castro demonstrators from harassing Catholic churchgoers.

Dorticos spoke a few hours after a demonstration outside Havana's Cathedral sent Most Rev. Evelio Diaz to the presidential palace with a warning that he would close all Catholic churches in Cuba today and declare the Church "in silence"—the Vatican's term for the Church's restricted operations in Communist countries—unless the government guarantees the safety of churchgoers.

A gang of youths assembled outside the building Tuesday during a High Mass in honor of Cuban priests. Eye-witnesses said the youths—some armed with steel bars and wooden clubs—shouted "Down with the Pope" and "Down with priests" and struck several worshippers as they were leaving the Cathedral.

The Home Owner

THE MOST CONSTRUCTIVE idea to emerge from the British Columbia election campaign is Mr. Perrault's plan to transfer school costs from the home owner to the Provincial Government.

It should be understood, of course, that this transfer will not reduce the total cost of schools and that cost must be borne by the people of British Columbia, no one else. But under Mr. Perrault's policy the cost would be placed on a wide base, the huge revenues of the Provincial Government, whereas too much of it now rests on the narrow base of municipal land and home taxes.

Mr. Perrault undoubtedly is right in believing that the municipal tax base—that is to say, the ordinary home owner—is too narrow for the load it must now carry. In virtually all municipalities the taxes on homes are going up rapidly and, at this rate, will soon be intolerable.

The present tax system strikes at the most useful element in any society—the home owner and the ordinary family. To undermine home ownership by confiscatory taxation is the worst mistake that any free society could make. Yet this is precisely the mistake that we are in danger of making despite Mr. Bennett's $50 annual grant to home owners—a small sop, soon cancelled out by rising municipal tax rates or assessments.

In the second place, it should be understood that the Bennett Government has greatly worsened the problem of home ownership by its management of provincial finances.

When the Government raised the sales tax, and again when it paid off direct provincial debt (while piling up huge debts through its various agencies) it did not use these savings to reduce taxes. It did not use them to relieve the municipal treasuries in any worthwhile fashion. It proceeded to spend every cent it could lay hands on. It committed itself to the highest spending and the highest taxes ever known in Canada.

Once the Government was free of all direct debt charges it had on hand a handsome kitty, Mr. Bennett says, of about $25 million a year. That is sufficient money to transform the position of the municipalities and rescue the home owner.

Instead of concentrating this money in a single effective measure of relief for the municipal taxpayers, the Government distributed it in dribs and drabs, not where it would solve any problem but where it would do the most good politically. That lucky tub was one of the Government's chief gimmicks for an election from which, says Mr. Bennett, "politics" should be excluded in favor of "progress."

The money that could so easily have relieved the land owner is no longer available. Hence Mr. Perrault's plan to make the provincial treasury responsible for school costs requires increased provincial expenditures on education. It need not require, however, any increase in total provincial taxes for two reasons.

The Provincial Government's revenues, from existing tax rates, are steadily increasing and produced a large budgetary surplus in the last fiscal year. That increase, as it continues with the growth of British Columbia, can be channeled into school costs, if the Government does not spend it all for other purposes.

Again, reasonable measures of economy in the provincial budget (the first in many years) could leave the Government with more money for the municipalities.

We need expect no such policy from the present Government. It is determined to go on spending every dollar it can wring out of the provincial taxpayers, or out of the national treasury which is supported only by provincial taxpayers through a different channel. To this Government economy is heresy. Any restraint on provincial spending to aid the municipalities and the home owners is unthinkable.

By challenging the Government's basic concept of finance, by proposing a bold redistribution of the tax burden in favor of the home owner, Mr. Perrault has introduced a clear, concrete and honest issue into an election which had threatened to become a contest of slogans and catchwords like "progress, not politics."

What we need most in this province after eight years of slogans and theatricals is more politics—that is to say, debate on actual policies. Mr. Perrault is to be thanked for introducing a real debate involving every home owner in British Columbia. Every home owner should consider it carefully, with his eye on his latest municipal tax bill.

Fires by Human Carelessness

ONCE MORE A SPOKESMAN for the British Columbia forest service has attributed to human carelessness 16 fires that sprang up on Vancouver Island over the weekend.

This is a shocking indictment at a time when the fire hazard is so obviously high. It is not necessarily a criticism of bona fide and experienced campers, who, because they love the woods, usually take particular precautions to protect their recreation spots.

At the same time, the forest service is convinced that the fires it mentioned—fires that were fortunately contained before they caused excessive damage—were caused by people who didn't think. These may be individuals who still are not aware of the fact that they caused the outbreaks. They may have tossed a cigarette aside unconsciously or failed to see that a match was properly extinguished. They may have backed a car with a defective exhaust too close to dry grass or brush at a roadside.

But the statement from the forest service should do at least one thing. It should encourage all British Columbians to think of actions which cause fires, to make sure that they are not guilty of such acts and that they draw the attention of any unconscious offender to a heedless action whenever one is committed.

The crackling dryness of the forest at this time demands that type of caution.

A Dimming Light in Ceylon

RECENTLY THE GOVERNMENT of Ceylon banned a news magazine of world distribution because it carried disparaging references to newly chosen Prime Minister Mrs. Sirimavo Bandaranaike.

This step is to be followed, says the Ceylon Daily News, by action which will take over the major domestic newspapers of that country. The means by which this will be accomplished, says the News, is the establishment of a "corporation in which the Government will have a block holding."

While no definite explanation for the action has been made public, it is believed that the solid opposition of the press to the present government party in the recent national elections is a factor in the government decision.

The action will be widely regretted. With a throttled press, who now will be the watchdog on an administration—so peculiarly sensitive to criticism?

Flag or Shroud?

CEREMONIES WITHIN THE last few days in Hiroshima and Nagasaki have been widely noted, but it is doubtful if they have been widely appreciated.

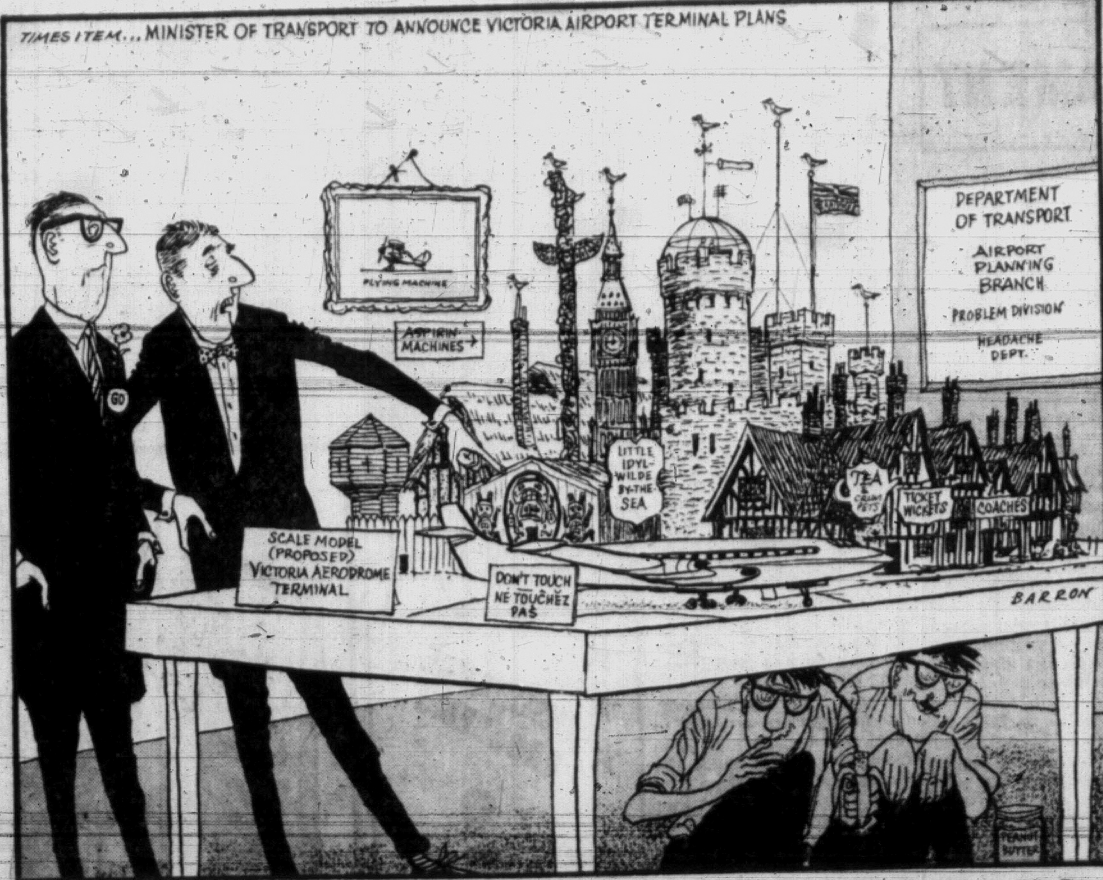

The fifteenth anniversary of the first—and so far, only—wartime nuclear bombings has been accompanied by figures giving the death tolls. But the totals are still open: the news accounts remind us that deaths ascribed to nuclear sickness are still occurring—fifteen years after. And there is no sure compilation of nuclear effects on heredity, or knowledge of what the future may hold in this regard.

That is the legacy of Hiroshima and Nagasaki. Yet even as the survivors of those cities observed the anniversary, the world powers were rattling their rockets. Nuclear armaments were building up, the United States had fired the first submarine-based jet missile, Russia was threatening armed intervention in the Congo and the Secretary-General of the United Nations was forced to warn that the world faces a "question of peace or war."

This atmosphere indicates that while the lessons of Hiroshima and Nagasaki have been heard, they have not been learned. Nor is it fully appreciated that the danger is much greater today than it was fifteen years ago—that nuclear attack today would not be a matter of months of preparation but of almost instant push-button immediacy.

Can we not make up our minds on the basis of the Hiroshima and Nagasaki samples: must we buy the whole cloth?

A Long, Long Trail A-Winding

By B. A. TOBIN

EVERYONE remembers the story of the babes in the wood, who hopefully marked their homeward route by a trail of bread crumbs which the birds promptly gobbled up. Lovers of nature undaunted would go along with a certain amount of crumb distribution, provided it was in small quantities that the birds could quickly dispose of.

Tobin

What they do object to is the type of babe in the woods who leaves a trail of less assimilable garbage in his or her wake. The spoor of modern man is a cigarette butt or a broken bottle. The spoor of modern woman is a crumpled bit of tissue paper. These artifacts are bad enough for the picknicker, camper or hiker who follows. But they are at least subject to the effects of time and weather.

In a year of two the pieces of cardboard, the cigarettes and the paper wrappers tend to rot away. The real menace of our age is the plastic wrapper—shiny, weatherproof, moisture-proof and practically indestructible.

What 20 or 50 years of plastic garbage accumulation may make of our forest paths and roadsides, our picnic sites and scenic spots, is not pleasant to contemplate.

Woodland Mystery

It's difficult to understand the impulse that drives the litterbug to leave his trail. The job is too well done to be merely the result of carelessness or chance. It shows a completeness and determination that can be inspired only by dedication to the cause of garbage.

And garbage is by no means a lost cause. Most of the stuff can't have been lost, it's been placed.

I wonder what indomitable urge drove some person or persons to drop a waxed carmel wrapper about every quarter-mile all the way up the Arrow-smith trail a few hours before my hike up there this summer? The number of wrappers indicated a notable tonnage of caramels, and the imagination can only summon a vision of scores of porters on safari, totting huge packing cases of wrapped caramels on their heads for the use of the bossman litter-bug.

What a thirst he must have endured as he chewed his way up the mountain; what a nuisance he must have found it to place each wrapper carefully in the centre of the trail. But he must have deemed it worth the effort, for he persevered to the end.

Wide Variety

The litterbug shows many facets of his ability. He can stuff a wad of greasy papers between two moss-covered tree trunks or drop a paper bag of lunch remains beside a smooth boulder which every wayfarer would use for a seat. He can toss broken sections of frankfurter into a clear little backwater pool at a picnic stream.

In male or female form the litterbug can rip half a dozen paper towels to shreds before strewing them through Cathedral Grove. He or she can empty a car ashtray on a path where every barefoot bather must pass. He can break his pop and beer bottles before spreading the glass along the water's edge of a lake. He can leave slowly rusting cans in an emerald-green swimming pool that is a woodland jewel.

Why does he do it? How can he do it?

How can he reduce a changing hut at a swimming place to such a state of filth that the authorities have decided to burn it and build another rather than attempt salvage? How can he repeatedly prove the final part of the poet's description: Where every prospect pleases and only man is vile?

Charitable View

In some cases, of course, the cause is thoughtless youth. That's the most charitable background you can give the person who ripped the bark off two young fir trees beside a campsite path, and left the browning remnants underfoot. Or the person who tore up a carton and threw the pieces into a swimming pool.

But could it be a child who stuffed half a dozen beer bottles behind a small tree at a campsite for his successor to find and place in the garbage can ten feet away? Could it be a juvenile who dripped bacon grease over a picnic table and left it to harden?

On the basis of how he acts in public places it is interesting to speculate on the litterbug's private quarters.

It must be a familiar scene: the ash tray's contents dumped in the corner of the living room, the rotting cabbage leaves kicked under the divan, the bits of facial tissue, wet and dry, piling up underfoot, the unscrews and bean cans rolling under the kitchen table, the torn beer cartons in the bedroom and the cigarette packages, used match books, banana peels, bottle tops, crumbs of bread, candy wrappers, mildewed milk cartons, scraps of newspaper, cellophane wrappings, discarded clothing and other ornamentation distributed through the home.

That must be the natural habitat of the litterbug. If only, in public, he wouldn't be himself.

'Filched From the CCF'

It is impossible to achieve a detached and objective point of view of the passing political scene in this province or to avoid a feeling of moral nausea, as, now that election day draws near, we find all parties which hitherto have gone on record as being opposed to and vociferous in their denunciation of the ideas, tenets and propositions consistently held by the CCF throughout all its political vicissitudes, now unabashedly "adopting" such of those ideas as may appear to contain value in appeal to the electorate. For example, the latest Liberal Party has announced its intentions, if elected, concerning school financing. This so far surpasses the CCF's more ably considered and balanced theories in this respect as to make the CCF appear almost conservative in comparison.

Other examples of such filching and elaborating upon long-held CCF beliefs and theories by one or another of the opposing parties could be cited, but they are now too well known to need repetition. It is a situation not without irony, but so obvious in its "political" rankness that even the most apathetic and unobservant member of the electorate must notice it and regard it with distaste.

The wonder is that in resorting to such means, such parties as adopt them do not appear to realize how revealing they are of their own poverty of ideas and how in the end it can but result in advancement of the party they all combine in hating more than they hate one another. It is particularly distressing to find in the Liberal Party, from which, among all those opposed to the CCF, it was hoped, in its apparent resurgence, better behavior could be expected.

Suspicious

Since receiving the pamphlet re the Esquimalt Sports Centre I have heard it discussed many times.

What strikes me the most is the attitude of so many parents—namely, if it is going to give their children any sort of adequate skating time, regardless of cost, it is an excellent idea. But are the children to get unlimited use of the centre? I hardly think so.

To make this project relatively solvent a great deal of the skating time must be turned over to the best paying groups. Who are these groups? The Army and Navy of course. Our children at best will take a back seat when it comes to allotted skating time. In effect the taxpayers of Esquimalt will be paying for the amusement of outside groups.

Many times I have seen children playing in Bullen Park. A bus-load of Navy men pulls up and the children are sent to play elsewhere while the Navy takes over.

Is it not likely that similar conditions will be the order of the day at the Sports Centre except that the time will be allotted not pre-empted.

As a housewife I am always suspicious of salesmen who offer me "something wonderful at absolutely no cost to you." For exactly the same reason I am suspicious of the Esquimalt Municipal Sports Centre especially as the voting is to take place when so many are vacationing.

How about this neighbors?

Vote 'Yes'

With the interests of youth and all community-minded citizens of the Greater Victoria area in mind, it is hoped strong support will be given Saturday to the Esquimalt ice arena proposal.

The planned skating and curling building would be a valued and practical asset to this entire district, and would relieve, rather than duplicate, already overcrowded ice sport facilities. There is every indication the proposed arena would be a self-supporting operation.

As a resident and a taxpayer of Esquimalt, and speaking on behalf of all sports-minded citizens, I thank the Esquimalt Council for its progressive interest in this proposal.

A "yes" vote for the Esquimalt arena will be a "yes" vote for progress.

WASHINGTON:

Alarming To Many

By JOSEPH AISOPI

JOHN KENNETH GALBRAITH is tall, sardonic, witty, Canadian-born Harvard professor of economics who alarms almost everybody. He alarms other economics professors because he obstinately writes the English language, which is held to be grossly immoral in every proper economics department, because he is not mushily humanitarian, in the fashionable left-wing way. But above all, he alarms conservatives.

Galbraith is becoming the new ogre of American businessmen, because he is thought to be a dangerous left-winger, and because he is well known to be one of Sen. John F. Kennedy's chief economic advisers.

America, sternly Galbraithized by a Kennedy victory, with not a single yacht, or quail shoot, or dividend left in the land—that is the grim vision which now haunts great numbers of prosperous persons.

Simple Remedy

If reading books were not becoming such an out-of-date pastime, the simplest remedies for these nightmares would be to read what Galbraith has written. Just for the jokes, it is well worth doing, as the following passage on the nature of vested interest may perhaps suggest:

"The nature of a vested interest has an engaging flexibility... in ordinary intercourse it is an improper advantage enjoyed by a political minority to which the speaker does not himself belong. When the speaker enjoys it, it ceases to be a vested interest and becomes a hard-won reward. When a vested interest is enjoyed not by a minority but by a majority, it is a human right."

Maybe the jokes are the real source of conservative alarm about Galbraith. In modern America, we do not suffer with gladly. At any rate, if you take a careful look at his "Affluent Society" and his more recent "Liberal Hour," you will find a system of ideas that logically ought to engage the left, far more than it disturbs the right.

To be sure, the basic proposition of the "Affluent Society" is unsettling. America, says Galbraith, is now too rich and comfortable to regard constantly increasing production of increasingly superfluous consumer goods as our main end and purpose. The time has come, Galbraith suggests, to think about buying more schoolrooms instead of more tailfins. And this of course requires much heavier investments in what he calls the "public sector."

Central Idea

This central idea, that it is needful to increase investment in the public sector, is the source of the conservative outcry against Galbraith. But if conservative persons will only read on, to discover HOW Galbraith proposes to increase public investment, they are likely to have more mixed reactions.

He is, to begin with, just about as anti-inflationary as George M. Humphrey. His reasoning is somewhat different. He says, for instance, that inflation corrupts good government, because government salaries never keep pace with an inflating currency.

But Galbraith and Humphrey stand four square together, nonetheless, on the subject of inflation. He also stands four square with Richard M. Nixon on the 1958 recession, he accepts the need for an unbalanced budget in bad times. But he also insists on a strict balance in good times.

Again, Galbraith stands four square with Humphrey and Nixon—or perhaps one should say, very nearly four square—on the problem of the income tax. Some of his sharpest jokes are directed at the liberal delusion that all bills can be paid by raising the taxes of the rich. It just will not work, he warns.

If Galbraith had his way, the vast existing loopholes would certainly be closed. Personal and corporate tax rates might perhaps be raised toward the pre-Eisenhower levels. But there would still be yachts and quail shoots in plenty.

Cool Proposal

Meanwhile, Galbraith coolly proposes to pay the main part of the bill for new public investment with the tax which has been the cherished darling, the favorite lost cause of the National Association of Manufacturers since time immemorial.

Extended sales taxes, in fact, are the expedient he proposes. And if this expedient bears hardly on the small remaining minority of the truly poor, he says that investment in the public sector must dry up these and remaining areas untouched by American affluence. There are other labor too, will like less well. Instead of the exhortation practised by President Eisenhower, he favors positive though moderate government action to stop the wage-price spiral at its source, and in the great administered-price industries.

He also points out that the Federal Reserve Board's methods of slowing inflation have not been super-effective. All the same, the equation of Galbraith with Karl Marx seems a bit questionable.

MARKED FOR READING

For a man middle age comes when a social equal, usually the son of a friend, calls him "Sir" for the first time. For a woman, it's the moment when the hairdresser or shop assistant urges some particular style with the recommendation that "it will make Madam look younger," when Madam hadn't realized till then that this was necessary.

Dear Miss Dix . . .

WASHINGTON—The "advice to the lover" column has been a newspaper staple for as long as Dorothy Dix and I can remember.

In recent years, however, the professional heart balancers have been getting some tough competition from experts in two other lines of journalistic advice-giving—bridge and medicine.

Almost anybody who can tell a spade from a club can make a living these days by writing a bridge column. And more and more of our friendly neighborhood physicians are dropping out of practice to take up syndicated medicine.

All of this is rather hard on the reader, who has to skip around all over the paper to find the solution to his particular problem. Therefore, it seems to me there is a pressing need for someone to start a new all-purpose column which would bring romance, card games and health under one tent.

If no one else feels equal to the task, I am prepared to volunteer my services. I just happen to have some old letters here with which to get the ball rolling.

The other evening when I jumped to six-trumps after a one-spade response to an opening diamond, my partner turned blue in the face and keeled over. What was wrong?

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

A Good Heredity

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Whenever in this column I mention a bad heredity I get many people angry at me. But, as I always say to those who write to scold me, they mustn't get angry because there is such a wonderfully good side to heredity, and we can't have that good side without the other bad side. I was just reading a very interesting book, "The Gifted Group at Midlife" by Lewis Terman and Melita H. Oden, which describes a follow-up study to see what happened to a group of very superior children, who were studied 35 years ago.

Although there are exceptions to the rule, the typical gifted child is usually the product of superior parentage—superior not only in cultural and educational background, but apparently also in heredity. As the result of the combined influence of heredity and environment, such children are superior as compared with the average child in the population.

The gifted child goes through school easily, and could doubtless go ahead much more rapidly if the teaching in our schools was adapted to his needs. Gifted children have many interests. They learn to read early and easily, and they love to read widely. Without any urging, they read many more books and also better books than the average child reads. Both boys and girls tend to mature so rapidly that they are two or three years ahead of the age norm. The gifted child at the age of nine is doing things that the average child can do only after he or she is past the age of 12.

In this book we learn what happened to these gifted children after they had reached maturity. Most of them have done remarkably well. More than 85 per cent entered college, and almost 70 per cent graduated. The latter figure is about 10 times as high as it is for a random group of comparable age. There were three times the usual number who received honors at graduation.

The symptoms you described indicate that your partner had a heart attack. You should have rebid diamonds.

"Last night as I was kneeling down to propose to my girl friend, I felt a pain in my left knee. She rejected me. What should I do?"

Try bathing your knee in warm salt water and when it limbers up, propose again. If that doesn't work, try bathing your girl friend in warm salt water.

I am madly in love with a girl I met at a bridge tournament but we can't afford to get married. She falls down a lot and runs up big doctor bills. What do you advise?"

It might help if you played bridge on the floor. Then she wouldn't have so far to fall.

"About a week ago my wife trumped my ace and I knocked her teeth in. What do you recommend for vases of this sort?"

Your wife should give up bridge until she gets a bridge for her teeth. (Watch for column on dental advice in the Sunday paper.) Meanwhile, you should give up aces.

"My husband goes out a lot at night, claiming he is playing bridge with the boys. I suspect that he is seeing another woman. This makes me have headaches. Should I take up bridge to keep him at home, or should I take something for the headaches?"

It is often easier to cure a headache than it is to learn bridge. There is no need to worry until he starts going out to play poker with the boys. Then you can be sure he is seeing another woman, and the headaches will stop.

Two-thirds of them went on after college for graduate study. The Ph.D. or a comparable doctorate, was taken by 14 per cent of the men and 4 per cent of the women graduates. Only 3 per cent of average college graduates take such a doctorate.

These men have written nearly 2,000 scientific and technical papers and articles, and some 60 books. At least 230 patents have been granted to some of these men. A group of the men have written 33 novels and 375 short stories.

When I see how great the gifts to society these able persons have to give, I am distressed to read that each year a large percentage of able college students drop out and do not graduate, often because they haven't the money to carry on.

In the Scientific American for May, 1960, Professor Meir Yoeli has a splendid article on the several diseases of man which are due to a tiny bit of living material which lives for much of its life in some animal. Often it gets into the blood of a man by way of the life of a mosquito, tick, mite, flea, louse, bug or sand-fly. Dr. Yoeli tells us how, in the jungles of South America the armadillos (small armored animals) carry in their blood millions of trypanosomes (tiny parasites). One day a kissing bug which has bitten an armadillo bites a passing opossum and infects its blood. If the opossum later happens to invade an Indian's hut, looking for food, another kissing bug can pick up some of the animal's trypanosomes and can pass them on to a woman by biting her. She can pass them on to a child in her womb, and she and the child can then get the often fatal Chagas fever.

One of the awful diseases of man—the typhus fever that, through the ages has decimated many an army—is due to a tiny organism called a rickettsia which is transmitted from an infected dog or rat or man to a soldier by way of a louse or tick or flea or mite. Today, with airplanes reaching this country a few hours out from India or Africa or South America, health officers have much to worry about; it would be so easy for a plane to bring to our shores some new and terrible disease.

HOME GARDEN

'An Endless Circle of Life'

In this favored part of the country there is no need to think about "the end of the garden" season—there is no end!

The same hot sun which brings maturity to the summer flowering plants will bring new life to those destined to bloom in the fall.

An endless cycle of life unfolds before our eyes if we will but keep them open.

Most of these fall treasures have roots in the form of bulbs or corms, and have been lying dormant during the two warm months.

Colchicums with their large crocus-like blooms will soon be appearing as if by magic. Overnight, towards the end of August, they will thrust their strong buds up through the soil, to open their goblets of lilac, pink, white or crimson.

These colchicums have huge solid bulbs, which should be planted immediately if they are wanted to flower this year.

Other harbingers of shorter days will be the fall crocuses, flowering from small corms as do the spring crocuses. In white, and all shades of blue, lilac and violet, these fall crocuses are too seldom seen.

Yet there is no difficulty in their culture, since they may be left to naturalize quite happily in any soil which is reasonably well drained in winter. The difficulty seems to have been in their drying out between the time the corms were dug in Holland and the time of their being received for planting here.

However, as local growers build up stocks, firm, plump corms will become increasingly available. They will have been out of the ground for only a few weeks, and, when planted in early August, will be ready to make roots and put out flowers the same season.

Another true fall flower is the gracefully lovely schizostylis, known by some as a Kafir-lily, or a Crimson-flag.

In appearance it resembles a small spike of gladiolus, but the root is fleshy, not a corm or a bulb. The leaves also are like those of gladiolus but softer, smaller and narrower.

Schizostylis makes its leaf growth during summer, and is now getting ready to push out its flower spikes of crimson or pink. Flowering continues until November in gardens sheltered from early frosts.

Grown in pots for a cool greenhouse or porch, schizostylis will flower until Christmas.

Cost Increased By Atomic Power

OTTAWA (CP)—Prospects for installation of small atomic power stations in the Canadian North in the near future dimmed today with the release of a special report by Atomic Energy of Canada Limited.

The report, prepared for the crown company at a cost of $200,000 by Canadian Westinghouse Company Limited, says nuclear stations would increase the cost of electricity to northern residents by about 22 to 25 per cent.

J. L. Gray, president of Atomic Energy of Canada said in an interview that the 12-month study shows that it would not be practicable at present to build atomic plants to service northern communities.

However, the picture could change if science found a cheaper way to build small atomic power stations, if northern communities increased rapidly in size or if the cost of fuel oil for conventional generating plants increased substantially.

STUDIED FROBISHER BAY

The atomic energy division of Canadian Westinghouse made a specific analysis of the power requirements at Frobisher Bay, a community of 1,500 some 1,400 miles north of Ottawa on the south coast of Baffin Island.

The report says that the capital cost of a nuclear power plant capable of providing Frobisher Bay with electricity and heat would be $7,120,000. This compared with $3,790,000 for an oil-fuelled plant.

Annual cost of operating the nuclear plant would be $974,000, as against $804,000 for a station using fuel oil.

The report said, however, that an atomic plant would be more practicable for a northern community with a population of 3,000 or more which did not have access to fuel oil at a reasonable cost. A nuclear plant of this size would have an annual operating cost only 2 per cent greater than that of an oil-burning plant.

But there are no communities of this size in the Canadian North. Yellowknife, N.W.T., has a population of about 3,000 but it has access to some hydro power and can import fuel oil at a reasonable cost. Whitehorse, Yukon, with a population of 5,000, also is supplied by hydro power.

'SPACE FOLKS' CANDIDATE

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Gabriel Green, 35, self-styled choice of the "Space People," declared his candidacy for the presidency Tuesday.

Green, president of the Amalgamated Flying Saucer Clubs of America, told a press conference his campaign would be based on his system of "prior choice economics" which he explained thus:

"Everything is or should be the sum total of all that has gone before."

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE HELPS BREAK DOWN FATS IN THE DIGESTIVE TRACT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fats . . . actually breaks them down. It is an established fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fats are broken down and form a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your digestive tract, liver bile helps break down fats the same way. Many of the foods you eat reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down these fats . . . for easier and more complete digestion.

Carter's Little Liver Pills' exclusive formula of vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fats in your digestive tract.

So when you feel sluggish, head-achy, nervous and need a laxative, take Carter's Little Liver Pills today! Remember, Carter's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile. Get Carter's Little Liver Pills today!

RIGHT'S RIGHT ON ROAD

The "right lane" is the right lane for slow traffic, the highway department has decided. Signs on three-lane B.C. highways won't be changed from "Slow traffic use right lane," an official of the department said Tuesday.

A coroner's jury and the Greater Victoria Safety Council had asked the department to consider "less ambiguous" wording following the death of two men in a Malahat smash.

The Motor-Vehicle Act says the left-hand, or outer lane must be used only for passing on a highway with two lanes for travel in the same direction.

This is "generally understood," the department feels.

CCF Workers Lose Jobs Over Election

Two CCF workers and three filing cabinets were packed and on their way out of the Legislative Buildings today, out of a job because of the election.

A decision by the cabinet has ended a week of suspense for research assistant John Wood and secretary Florence Riley.

They were finally "fired" and asked to vacate the CCF office at the Buildings because their boss—the Leader of the Opposition—no longer holds that title.

With dissolution of the house all MLAs are out of office. Their transportation passes and other privileges are cancelled.

Mr. Wood and Mrs. Riley were especially appointed members of CCF Leader Robert Strachan's staff by cabinet order.

NEW POST

The research post is a new one, created since the last election.

The pair was wondering if its fate would be political or constitutional—it ended up the latter.

Mr. Wood and Mrs. Riley are going to Vancouver to work for Mr. Strachan there during the campaign.

"It's just as well we are moving," he said. "We may go into the premier's office after the election."

Mrs. Mills' Funeral On Friday

Mrs. Vivian Mills, 75, a native daughter of Victoria, died Tuesday in St. Mary's Priory, Langford, after a lingering illness.

She was the daughter of Capt. John Jaeger, master of the Grappler, which was destroyed by fire in the Seymour Narrows in 1883.

Before her marriage to Harry V. Mills, a former government auditor killed in a traffic accident two years ago, she worked in the lands department of the B.C. government.

She was best known as secretary to chief forester Martin Grainger.

Funeral services will be held on Friday at 10.30 a.m. at Christ Church Cathedral.

Gas Theft Admitted By Airmen

(Times News Services)

VANCOUVER — Two RCAF storekeepers pleaded guilty Tuesday to the theft of aviation gasoline from the air force base at near-by Sea Island.

Cpl. Patrick McArthur, 38, of Vancouver, and LAC James A. Thorburn, 41, of Winnipeg, were remanded to Aug. 17 for sentence by Magistrate R. C. Palmer in police court at suburban Richmond.

Thorburn pleaded not guilty to a second charge of obtaining aviation gas by false pretences. The two airmen were charged following a joint RCAF-RCMP investigation into a shortage of thousands of gallons of aviation fuel at the RCAF base.

RCMP said after the court appearance that an investigation is continuing and further charges may be laid against civilians once it is established who received the missing gasoline.

Miner Killed

BRALORNE — A Nova Scotia miner was killed and a fellow-worker was seriously injured Tuesday in an accident at the Pioneer gold mine here. Killed in a 50-foot fall when drilling machinery broke was Harold Jessome, 34, of Cape Breton.

Donald Sadler, 35, of Bralorne received a fractured hip and internal injuries in a 25-foot fall. He was flown to Vancouver, 100 miles south of here, for treatment.

Go-Cart No Go

VANCOUVER — The parents of a 17-year-old speedster will have to see that he keeps his go-cart off the streets. That was the stipulation laid down by Juvenile Court Judge Charles C. Bell Tuesday when the youth pleaded guilty to speeding at up to 65 miles an hour.

Bridge Opened

VANCOUVER — The first car drove over the new Second Narrows Bridge here Tuesday, more than two years after the steel superstructure of the bridge collapsed into Burrard Inlet with a loss of 17 lives.

It was an historic journey for Carl Stanwick's foreign car.

Stanwick, 42, is an engineer for Swan-Wooster Engineering Limited, bridge designers. He bought the little car when he started work on the bridge in 1956 and used it in shuttling around the project.

VC Winner Dies

VANCOUVER — Alfred W. Smith, who won the Victoria Cross in the First World War, has died in hospital here after a long illness. Mr. Smith, born in Edmonton, was 65.

It was at the Battle of the Somme in 1915 that Mr. Smith was wounded in action and received the Victoria Cross for valor. He was then a private dispatch runner for Col. William Griesbach.

Fines Reduced

VANCOUVER — Fines against five sailors who were AWOL from the British freighter Silthonia have been reduced to less than one-third of the original sum by the captain of the vessel.

Captain Arthur Bolding, who originally fined the runaway sailors $150 each and deducted two days' pay for each day they were away, today reduced the fines to about $40.

Frank McLaughlin, assistant secretary of the British Columbia Federation of Labor (CLC), said the men admit they went AWOL in New Westminster when government officials ordered the ship washed down.

He said officials found men on board and the holds were not clean enough to take on lumber.

The five sailors are reported to have worked for 16 hours cleaning the ship, but harbor health officials said it was not clean enough. The sailors then left the ship.

TO KEEP THEM WITH WEST

Bigger Loans Need Of Latin Americas

GENEVA PARK, Ont. (CP)—Other countries must lend Latin America much more money if the 20 republics are to make the progress their peoples desire.

This prescription has been offered at the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs conference, not for the sake of the patient, but for the sake of the Latin countries remain part of the Western system. Also suggested was greater co-operation among Latin American countries.

Victor Urquidí, Mexican economist, said Tuesday night some $1,500,000,000 a year is going into Latin America in all forms, including investment loans and grants. He suggested this should be doubled to $3,000,000,000 annually over a period of about 15 years.

Jose Figueres, former president of Costa Rica, urged greater credits for establishment of industry owned within the various countries rather than by foreign firms.

“We like to own our own countries and to pay back our debts,” he said.

“We are not all revolutionaries. Latin America is studying its own problems in an effort to find rational solutions and there is a fine school of Latin American economic thought.”

Replying to comments on the vast sums needed by underdeveloped countries, Mr. Figueres said: “Beside the amount which the United

It Won't Happen in Canada

By HAL MALONE
Times Business Editor

The legend that men are better drivers than women, born no doubt in the days when Rome courted Juliet in a chariot, may have received a rude blow in England but it's not likely to in Canada.

Readers (especially female) will have cherished the Times story Tuesday in which a British firm said it is cutting liability premiums for women drivers by 10 per cent because studies show the ladies are less accident and claim conscious. (Some male drivers will argue that certain women drivers aren't even conscious but that is not the issue today.)

Actually, says Dean Miller, western representative for All Canada Insurance Federation, women drivers are fairly treated by Canadian insurance companies.

“Indirectly rather than directly, women drivers get what you might call a preferred insurance rate in Canada,” said Miller.

This happens in three ways: 1. Under 25 years females pay no penalty as do males. A 17-year-old boy may pay from $20 to $50 more for insurance than his female counterpart.

The reason: surveys show male motorists under 25 drive more than females, are not subject to as much parental control, link up with cars more than girls and tend to be greater exhibitionists.

2. Since most women drive less frequently than men they gain the benefit of a lower rate for fixed mileage. Against this, said Miller, a woman who drives to work pays a higher rate than a man who uses his car for casual driving only.

“WATCH THAT POLE” 3. Many insurance firms grant a preferred rate (10 to 20 per cent) for two-car families. In practice, if not in theory, the second car is usually the wife's car. As such it is used infrequently for light shopping and visiting and is less likely to be in contact with “the telephone pole which happened to be in my way.”

Insurance rates are set in Canada and B.C. by three main groups: Canadian Underwriters' Association whose members write about 50 per cent of the business; Independent Auto Insurance Companies, consisting of companies which broke from the CUA and set up their own board; and, independent independents whose heavy volume gives them sufficient statistical experience to set rates.

GUIDE INDUSTRY The rates they set are intended to guide the industry. Members are not bound to follow them. Most do, says Miller. A few don't, he conceded, which may account for the odd driver's tale of getting a “better rate from Joe Smith than he could get from Bill Brown.”

Refining the rate structure, as the British firm has done, has long been advocated by segments of the motoring public. Miller doesn't think it would help in B.C. or Canada. In fact he believes it would throw additional costs on to insuring companies and hence to the driver.

“There are 2,800 different rates for collision insurance alone in B.C. And that's not counting the independent independents,” says Miller.

Perhaps Britain has better women drivers than Canada, he says, but many factors enter the picture.

“Britain has no problem of inter-provincial or interstate insurance legislation. Canada has 10 problems. The U.S. has 50.”

“Britain has one piece of legislation for the entire country.

“Britons, generally, have far more regard for the rules of the road. This is reflected in claims filed.

“Rare is the British motorist, male or female, who would dare drive when his or her licence is under suspension. They know that if found guilty the penalty is severe. In contrast, driving while under suspension is fairly common here. Just the other day a woman was fined $25, imagine, $25—for this offence.

“Maybe,” said Miller, “our accident and claims totals would decrease if B.C. drivers knew they would pay heavily for such flagrant disregard for the law.”

Defensive Backfield May Determine Fate of Lions

By The Canadian Press

The Canadian football pros kick off their 1960 regular season Thursday night when the Grey Cup champion Winnipeg Blue Bombers pit their record against British Columbia Lions at Vancouver Empire Stadium.

Bombers will go without two big guns. Quarterback Jim Van Pelt has been inducted into the United States Army and linebacker Jack Delvaux is out with torn knee cartilages.

The Eastern Big Four starts its regular season next Tuesday night with Toronto Argonauts against the Rough Riders at Ottawa and Hamilton Tiger-Cats against the Alouettes at Montreal.

Bombers are after their fourth straight crown in the Western Interprovincial Football Union and their third consecutive Grey Cup.

Coach Bud Grant will probably use all-star quarterback Kenny Ploen to call most of the signals with help from Vernon Cole from North Texas State, touted as the man to replace Van Pelt after his showing in exhibition games.

Coach Wayne Robinson hasn't said who will lead the Lions, but it is expected to be Randy Duncan, second-year quarterback from the University of Iowa. Also on hand will be import quarter Jim "Mississippi Gambler" Walden, who performed with imagination and skill in Lions' exhibition games.

The game is expected to draw more than the record 34,273 fans at Empire Stadium last Aug. 31.

Grant is bringing 30 Bombers to Vancouver.

Named as starters are Norm Rauhaus, Steve Patrick, Roger Savoie, Cornell Piper, George Druyman, Cee Luning, Ed Kotowich, Buddy Tinsley, Pat Ross, Mike Davies, Gerry James, Keith Webster, Gordie Rowland, Rick Potter, Nick Miller and Henry Janzen.

Also expected to see action are Charlie Shepherd, Curt Merz, Frank Rigney, Gar Warren, Burr Davis, Herb Gray, Dave Burkholder, Mike Wright, Ernie Pitts, Carver Shannon, Kenny Ploen, Leo Lewis and Vern Cole. Grant is also taking injured Farrel Funston although he was listed as a doubtful starter.

Robinson has named only eight of 12 imports certain to start in the game.

They are halves Bob Jeter and Bill Herron, centre Ed Sullivan, fullback Don Vile, guard Tom Hinton, tackle Urban Henry and halfback Willie Fleming and Duncan.

Robinson could go with an almost all-Iowa backfield with Duncan at quarter and Jeter and Fleming at halves. He could make it an all-Rose Bowl backfield with the addition of rookie fullback Jim Jones of Washington.

Lions finished third in the five-team race last season, the first time they ever got into the playoffs. They lost to Eskimos in the semifinals.

Neither Grant nor Robinson will predict their chances of taking the title. Both claim weaknesses for the rugged 16-game schedule which winds up Oct. 29.

Grant says: "We've got to be weaker offensively and just about even with last year on defence — so, overall we're weaker."

Robinson says: "How we do will depend on how well our young defensive backfield moulds itself into a unit and how much the other teams have improved. We'll have to go some to equal last year's third-place finish, but on the whole the team is bigger, faster and more mobile than the 1959 Lions."

The second game of the season will be played at Regina Aug. 12 when the Saskatchewan Roughriders meet the Calgary Stampeders. Two other home openers are reserved for Aug. 15 when the Lions are in Edmonton's Clarke Stadium and the Bombers christen Calgary's new University Campus stadium, both this summer to replace the elderly Mewata.

Winnipeg will be home for the first time against Calgary Aug. 18.

SIDELINE SLANTS

Doug Peden

Jack Patrick is walking around these days with a chunk of plaster protecting a broken bone in his right hand.

Since the cast is adorning his passing flipper and will be there for a couple of months, it might be expected that the guy who has been coach, quarterback and general tub-thumper for Victoria Drakes during the past few grid seasons would be also wearing a sizeable frown. But it ain't so. Jack is talking about the upcoming Pacific Coast Conference intermediate Canadian football campaign with all his usual enthusiasm.

Patrick, who has handled most of the signal calling duties during his time with the Drakes, explains it this way:

"It wouldn't have made any difference. I wasn't expecting to play very much because Chuck would have run me out of my job anyway."

CHUCK WEEKS

Chuck is a personable young man by the name of Chuck Weeks who happened to be transferred to Victoria by his life insurance firm. The freckle-faced 23-year-old expects to be around these parts for a long time and wherever he is, Weeks wants to play football.

That, of course, means lining up with the Drakes because they are Vancouver Island's only collection of grid-line gladiators above junior ranks.

Whether or not he would have been able to push Patrick out of the quarterback slot without a big argument is probably a matter of guesswork. But his record suggests that it would have been difficult to keep Weeks on the bench, although Patrick is just about as talented a Canadian pigskin pilot as you can find outside the pro corral.

Spent Two Months With Blue Bombers

Weeks, a sandy-haired six-footer, who looks positively slender at 170 pounds, is a product of Winnipeg junior and juvenile football. First-string quarterback for Winnipeg Rads when the Rads grabbed the Dominion junior crown in 1956 and finished in the runner-up spot the following season, Chuck attracted the attention of Winnipeg Blue Bombers and spent two months in a Bomber uniform in 1958.

That happened to be the year that a fellow by the name of Jim Van Pelt signed his name to a Winnipeg contract and since Kenny Ploen was also a Blue Bomber boy, there wasn't much room behind the line for rookie quarterbacks.

They tried to work Weeks in as a halfback, but he says, "my blocking was terrible," and he eventually parted company with the Bombers.

After moving to B.C. last year, Chuck was with B.C. Lions at training camp. A groin injury ended any chance he had of catching on with the Leos and he finished the season with Surrey Rams, in the intermediate circuit with Drakes, Victoria Navy and Vancouver Columbian, who beat Drakes in a playoff for the provincial crown.

Navy has dropped out of the circuit this time around, but Columbian, now campaigning under the banner of Vancouver Grizzlies, are back, along with Rams and Drakes.

Chuck Copied 'Black Magic' Tricks

Patrick's crew opens the Victoria season against Grizzlies at Macdonald Park on Sept. 3 and Patrick believes Weeks is just the man to drive the Drakes to the conference crown.

Chuck figures he played his best game in the 1956 game, but he is also rated a good runner when he decides to pack the mail himself. He is also an expert at hiding the ball, which may be only natural since he patterned his style after Joe "Black Magic" Zaleski, who was a past master in the art of confusing opposing linemen while he was working with the Bombers.

Chuck believes he played his best game in the 1956 Canadian junior final at Toronto. He connected on six of seven passes, including two for touchdowns, as the Rads clipped Toronto's Parkdale Lions, 21-10.

It's a cinch that Patrick is hoping Weeks can hit receivers at a better clip than he is belting baseballs in our senior amateur circuit, where his batting average is a somewhat skimpy .214.

There is no doubt that he can. Just how much better will find out in three weeks come Saturday.

TOUGH COMPETITION

Down Under Snipers Take Two Matches

CONNAUGHT RANGES, Ont. (CP)—Canadian riflemen are meeting stiff competition from British and New Zealand shots at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association matches.

New Zealanders won two of Tuesday's matches at these ranges near Ottawa and a veteran British shot took the third.

Major Robin A. Fulton, Bisle, England, took the Banker's, downing two Canadians, veteran WO2 Norm L. Beckett, 51, Ancaster, Ont., and novice PO Bob Pitcairn, 22, Portage La Prairie, Man., in a shoot-off to decide the first three places.

All three had fired 97 points of a possible 100 in the match at 300 and 600 yards.

Buster Sutherland, 27-year-old sheep farmer from Masterton, won the first New Zealand victory of the day. He fired 15 consecutive bullseyes at 300 yards to win the Connaught match with a perfect 75 score.

Dave Coughley of Okahaka, a flight sergeant in the Royal New Zealand Air Force, took the second New Zealand victory. He picked Capt. H. A. Axam of Picton, Ont., in a two-man shoot-off after both had scored 72 points of a possible 75 in the presidents' match at 600 yards.

Shooting conditions were difficult most of the day with bright sunshine reflecting on targets in the morning and heavy heat rashes hampering vision as the weather warmed up in the afternoon.

NO HARD FEELINGS

Swing Switch Started Harold on Better Path

By IAN SMITH

Harold Husband has been tinkering with his swing the last couple of weeks, and don't bet that the Victoria businessman isn't happy with the results.

A nine handicapper in his first year as a member of the Seniors' Northwest Golf Association, Husband upset medalist Pete McIntyre of Trail, 3 and 2 Tuesday in the first round of the SNWGA tournament at Victoria Golf Club.

When he closed out the match on the 16th Husband was approximately equal to the 73 that McIntyre posted in leading the qualifying round Monday.

But that was the day before and two days of blazing sun can take its toll. Husband, however, thrived on it.

Monday he had shot an 81 to qualify by the slim margin of one stroke. Tuesday's improvement may have been due to adjustment to the new swing.

If Husband can keep it up, he stands a fine chance of winning the title in his first year as a senior. He can also become the first Canadian to claim the championship since McIntyre did it in 1955.

Another former champion who also found the going rough was Tacoma's Corey Wagner, eliminated by S. E. Stretton of Seattle, 5 and 4. Wagner won the tourney in 1956.

That left Dr. O. F. Willing of Portland as the only former champion still in the running. The 1954 winner, ousted Roy Campbell of Seattle on the 19th green.

LINEHAM OUSTED

Defending champion Bill Blakely did not qualify in Monday's medal round.

While Husband advanced, Victoria favorite Harold Lineham went down 3 and 2 to Vancouver's Jack Edgell. Only other Victoria player remaining was George Sparling, who reached the round of eight with a 5 and 3 victory over Tacoma's H. K. Nichols.

Most lopsided win of the day was chalked up by Tom Green of Seattle, who lost to Blakely in last year's final. He marked himself as a strong contender with a crushing 6 and 4 win over Seattle's Ernie Ketcham.

Other first-round results left Forie Watson of Seattle with a 2 and 1 victory over Des Grub of Vancouver, and Dr. E. M. Taylor of Seattle with a 1 up win over Spokane's Jack Ford.

In today's matches, Husband was to meet Dr. Taylor, Sparling was scheduled to play Green, Dr. Willing and Edgell were to match shots, and Stretton and Watson were to tangle in an all-Seattle match.

VETERAN SIGNS

DETROIT (AP)—Veteran defenceman Warren Godfrey, 29, has signed his 1960-61 contract with Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

Watson succeeds Johnny Crawford, former Boston defenceman, who resigned his position with the Reds in May.

THAT'S WHAT HE SAYS...

MOSCOW (AP)—A high Soviet sports official said Tuesday Russia has excellent prospects in 13 events of the Rome Olympics and does not look with favor on the use of dope or stimulants by athletes.

"We don't know of any type of stimulant that is not harmful to an athlete," said Nikolai Romanov, chairman of the Soviet sports committee at a press conference.

The question of whether

Four Old Uns Show The Young Pros How

By UP International

They say there's no sentiment in baseball but who can deny a tip of the old chapeau today to vets like Ted Williams, Stan Musial, Curt Simmons and Luis Arroyo?

All four were considered just about washed up when the season started but now Williams has reached another home run milestone, Musial and Simmons are playing major roles in the St. Louis Cardinals' astonishing rise to pennant contention, and Arroyo is the lifesaver of the New York Yankee bullpen.

Here's how the four old pros showed the young 'uns how to do it in Tuesday night's major league action:

—Williams, 41, tied Mel Ott for third place in the all-time home-run race when he hit the 511th of his brilliant career in the Boston Red Sox' 6-3 loss to the Cleveland Indians.

Musial, 39, figured in three runs with two doubles and a sacrifice fly in the first game and Simmons, 31, pitched a five-hitter as the Cardinals whipped the Philadelphia Phillies, 5-4 and 6-0, to move into second place in the National League.

—Arroyo, 33, turned in his sixth straight fine relief job to gain credit for the Yankees' 7-4, eight-inning triumph over the Chicago White Sox. The win boosted the Yankees' American League lead to 1½ games.

Baltimore Orioles beat Detroit Tigers, 3-0, and Kansas City Athletics beat Washington Senators, 8-3, after a 3-1, 12th-inning loss in other American League games. Pittsburgh Pirates topped Chicago Cubs, 7-1, and Los Angeles Dodgers shaded Milwaukee Braves, 3-2, in other National League action. San Francisco at Cincinnati was rained out.

Williams hit his 19th homer of this season off Jim Perry, who went on to win his 14th game for the Indians. The blow by Williams, who is hitting .305 this year, sailed far over the 380-foot mark in Cleveland Stadium and produced a 3-3 tie in the fourth inning. Only Babe Ruth, with 714, and Jimmy Foxx, with 534, hit more homers than Williams, whose heroics were negated by a two-run homer and a run-producing double by Vic Power.

Musial, who lifted his average to .291, doubled and scored in both the sixth and eighth innings to help relief ace Lindy McDaniel raise his record to 9-3. Then Simmons, a sore-arm case for several years, topped his ex-Philadelphia teammates for the third time to complete the sweep and give the Cardinals four straight victories and 12 in their last 14 games.

Arroyo, brought up from Jersey City of the International League three weeks ago, shut out the White Sox for 1½ innings to win his first game for the Yankees. The Yankees pushed over three runs in the eighth inning with the aid of errors by Joe Ginsberg and Roy Sievers with the bases filled and the game was called after the White Sox eighth because of a sudden rainstorm.

Now It's Bread

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The gastronomical preferences of our storied athletes long have been a lip-smacking subject of conversation so you can't hardly blame trotting for trying to get in the act.

Babe Ruth doted on hot dogs and there was one occasion on which it gave him the most celebrated upset stomach in history. Another Babe, named Zaharias, was hamburger happy and you can carry it all the way up to the health foods which Herb Elliott credits with giving him the world record in the mile.

But a horse that eats schmalzbrot has the centre of the international stage today. This nag, who hails from Austria, might be suspect on several counts when the story is told that he drools over this dark German bread made with pork fat. First of all, he's an entry in the mile and a quarter international world championship to be held at Roosevelt raceway on New York's Long Island come Aug. 20. Secondly, they got a ton of publicity last year over the fact that a French horse named Jenny couldn't hardly set any world record unless he was stuffed with artichokes.

Those two clubs will play a warm-up game tonight and then will launch their best-of-three series Friday at 6 p.m. Second game will be Sunday at 2 p.m. with the third set for Monday at 6 p.m. Finals will begin either Monday or Wednesday at 6 p.m., with Wakeman Trimble meeting the winner of the semifinal.

Tuesday's victory was the seventh in a row for pitcher Mike Ash, who has not been defeated this season. He gave up only four hits and struck out seven.

Vancouver 1961 Site

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Mrs. M. O. Corkill of West Vancouver, B.C., has been named president of the Canadian Women's Golf Association.

Vancouver was named the site for the 1961 Canadian women's close and open championships.

Anyhow, Iton scorns anything but a home-made variety of schmalzbrot. Commercial brands, apparently, are for peasants and dray horses. So three restaurants in Yorkville, the sauerkraut section of Manhattan, had to be approached before home-made schmalzbrot was found and the day of Aug. 20 was saved.

CALL HIM ANDY

Iton thus has been quite a problem for the personable Baron Andreas, who likes to be called "Andy" about as well as Iton likes good, home-made schmalzbrot. Andy is a handsome, wiry man with a ruddy complexion who stands five feet, 11 inches and weighs 155 pounds. His second love is gypsy music and also, girls, he's a bachelor.

His Iton is quite a guy, too. In Austria a horse is handicapped according to money won and past performances. Iton recently was beaten a head in a race where he gave away 88 yards. In another start at Baden, Iton had to concede 275 yards to his chief rival and lost the decision by two lengths.

That, even though Iton wishes it was, is no schmalzbrot.

CHEW OF A KIND

Second member of bulging-cheek fraternity came to Cleveland when Rocky Bridges (right) joined Harvey Kuenn and Indians. Former Detroit Tigers, Kuenn and Bridges give the tobacco-chewing sign. (NEA).

Mike Ash Pitches Seventh Triumph

Wakeman Trimble held batting practice Tuesday, so now the team can rest and let Eagles and Olson Motors do all the work for a while.

The contractors wound up the Senior Amateur Baseball League schedule at Royal Athletic Park Tuesday with a 13-hit 8-0 victory over Naval Vets that made it certain that they can sit out the semifinal between Olsons and Eagles.

Those two clubs will play a warm-up game tonight and then will launch their best-of-three series Friday at 6 p.m. Second game will be Sunday at 2 p.m. with the third set for Monday at 6 p.m.

Finals will begin either Monday or Wednesday at 6 p.m., with Wakeman Trimble meeting the winner of the semifinal.

Rae Could Have Used Some Putting Practice

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Two big favorites in the Canadian Women's Open golf championship took to the putting green Tuesday after scoring first-round match-play victories in the 47th annual event.

Judy Darling, Hudson Heights, Que., and Canadian women's close champion Mrs. Robert Lyle, Montreal, realized an off-day could be disastrous in the six-day tournament, which ends Saturday.

"You have to be at your best in this match play," Mrs. Lyle told reporters—as she stroked a score of practice balls on the putting green. "One bad day now and you've had it."

EASY TIME

Mrs. Lyle had a comparatively easy time Tuesday in her first-round match, defeating six-time New Brunswick champion Cairine Wilson, St. Andrews, 6 and 5.

Miss Darling was forced to the 17th hole before edging Mrs. H. L. Mussells, Montreal.

The 18th upshot in Tuesday's play was recorded by Lanny Cranston, San Marino, Calif. Miss Cranston, her approach game near sensational, defeated Calgary's Rae Milligan, 1 up, to remain among the field of 16 still in the running for the championship.

SELDOM MISSED

Miss Cranston seldom missed on the greens as she knocked off Miss Milligan, three times runner-up for the close championship. She won it on the 18th when she parred the 215-yard-hole. Miss Milligan's approach shot struck the apron and just topped on the green about 18 feet from the pin. She missed the putt.

"My putting was my downfall," said the dejected Miss Milligan, who qualified with a two-over-par 79 Monday. Miss Cranston had a 91 in the qualifying round and just made the low 32 group.

Miss Darling was pitted today against Heather Lawrence of Norwood, Man., one of five juniors still in the running. Miss Lawrence came from behind to nip Mrs. J. Tachans of Winnipeg 1-up on the 18th.

The Winnipeg golfer had led by three holes going into the 13th hole.

SIME THREAT FOR GOLD MEDAL

All The Way Back?

COVINA, Calif. (AP)—Dave Sime took two steps and limped off the track in pain—his bid for the 1956 United States Olympic team shattered.

Sime, resting in a chair at the Olympic team's training camp near here, didn't talk much Monday of the leg injury that ruined his 1956 chances and still haunts him.

He talked of the new Sime—healed and flashing the old speed that has made him a surprising threat for a gold medal at Rome.

"I'm four-tenths of a second better now than at the Olympic trials," the former Duke University athlete said. "Each week I feel stronger."

In the trials he tied for the third spot on the sprint team.

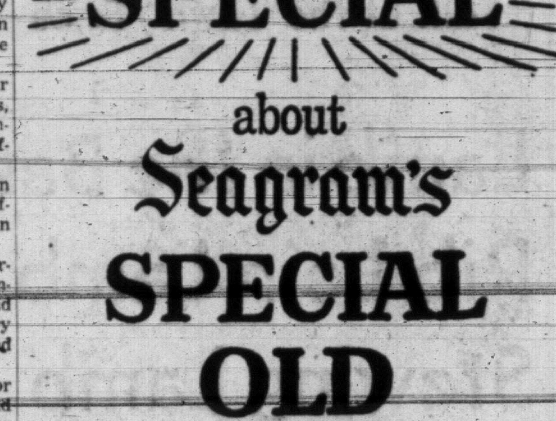

Two straight victories in pre-Olympic meets have assured him of a starting berth at Rome. The second came last Friday night at Long Beach when he ran 100 metres in 10.5 seconds against a seven-mile-an-hour wind.

Vienna Magic Works Its Charm

This is another report by a committee of students with the 166 Victoria teen-agers currently touring Europe.

It was a sorry crew that greeted Austria's capital, Vienna. The gay city of the waltz, just about 50 miles from the Iron Curtain, tried as best it could to revive our spirits. (Due perhaps to the water changes, or to unwashed fruit, an illness kept many in bed).

A bus tour of the city on our first morning there acquainted us with the beautiful buildings and parks of Vienna. A monument of interest was the one constructed by the Soviets upon their withdrawal from Vienna in 1955.

None of us could fail to be impressed by the figure of a Russian soldier with gold helmet and shield.

On Sunday morning we had a special treat. We went to the "Grüne Tor," a restaurant built into part of the ancient medieval wall of Vienna, and frequented by Strauss himself.

Heavy Rain

Our planned concert in the City Hall courtyard was cancelled because the Vienna Symphony Orchestra would not play in the downpour.

We visited the vaults of the Hapsburg dynasty, toured the art gallery, saw the Hapsburg treasury and Schonbrunn Palace.

Later we joined the crowds of Vienna in their own famed woods. We also toured a Cistercian monastery and church, one of the most beautiful we've seen.

Our next stop, Salzburg, was a fascinating one. There, some of our students and even supervisors bought authentic Austrian costumes—lederhosen for the men and lace-trimmed dresses for the ladies.

Folk Dances

Most of us will remember Salzburg best for either of two performances. One group attended a small concert in the home of Mozart. Another attended a performance of folk dancers, singers and yodellers.

A day trip to Berchtesgaden, Hitler's wartime retreat, and a cable car ride to the top of the Jennerberg thrilled us all. This was our first taste of Germany and we were eager to return.

In Germany we also visited Bonn, the capital, before journeying to Belgium.

We caught a train to Ostend and made our way to our billets. The boys are sleeping 15 to a room. Next to one of our rooms is a group of English boys.

The first night, Larry Johnston had to be on his toes because his bed is near a trapdoor adjoining the rooms of the English boys and an occasional stink bomb was lobbed past his head by them!

'Day Off'

Instead of following the prescribed schedule Tuesday morning we were given the full day off for shopping or going to the beach. One group went to Middlekirk where they rent motor scooters and small motor cars. Mike Cranston and Frank Rhodes succeeded in turning their motor car over on the first try!

Quite a few of the boys loaded up on sneezing powder, stink bombs and exploding matches at the trick and joke shop. Vern Pratt almost bought the store out.

USE OF TRANQUILLIZERS EXCUSE FOR MURDER

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—An attractive brunette was acquitted of a murder charge Monday because she had taken tranquilizer pills the evening she fatally beat her sleeping husband with a hammer.

"I'm one of the most fortunate people in the world," said Mrs. Martha Ann Taft, 30.

One in Eight U.K. Drivers Convicted

LONDON (AP)—A record 1,070,603 drivers in England and Wales were charged with motor vehicle offences last year, the transport ministry announced Tuesday in its annual report.

In fact, the odds are only 8 to 1 against a driver being convicted or being charged with a traffic violation in a 12-month period.

Summons last year increased 6.6 per cent; but the biggest jump was in drunken driving, up a whopping 18.3 per cent.

Courts handled 70,930 more cases in 1959 compared with the previous year and the number of drivers jailed increased 29 per cent.

More than the equivalent of $5,900,000 in fines were levied an increase of more than $1,000,000.

FINES INCREASED

The amount of the fines also went up and so did the number of drivers disqualified—a startling 54 per cent—to 29,016 from 18,843.

The increases resulted from the officially-sanctioned stern attitude taken by both magistrates and the police toward traffic violations.

But for the despairing British motorists, haunted by restrictions and crowded roads, still worse is on the way.

The government is planning more legislation this fall in a bid to improve road safety.

Optimists Give $2,000 For Lifeguards at Lakes

Following the death Sunday of eight-year-old Edward MacMullen in Beaver Lake, Victoria Noon Optimist Club has offered $2,000 to provide additional lifeguards at Elk and Beaver Lakes for the remainder of the summer.

The money will provide 10 guards on Sundays compared with the present four, and one will be on duty during each weekday.

Norman Beattie, Optimist's president, said the offer stemmed from reports of an inadequate number of guards in the area—and Sunday's accident.

NO MONEY
Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee indicated their needs concerning more lifeguards but said they hadn't got the money this year. Optimists will provide the money—raised by bingo games and other efforts.

"We are just making the money available," said Mr. Beattie, "the committee will do the rest."

"We are hoping the council will be able to provide the money themselves next year," he said.

LABOR DAY
Ald. Millard Mooney, committee chairman, said Tuesday the money will provide extra guards until after Labor Day. The biggest problem facing the committee, however, is finding the 10 extra guards.

They have to have a lifesaving certificate; Ald. Mooney said, and have to be part policeman, part first aid man and be able to handle crowds.

Applications from women would be accepted. They should be made to the personnel officer, City Hall.

Coast Guard Lack Costly

VANCOUVER (CP)—The lone survivor of a fishboat sinking which took four lives said Tuesday a coast guard rescue service could have saved lives in the accident.

Robert Pederson, 30-year-old ship's cook from Vancouver, struggled to safety July 23 when the 57-foot Unimak sank near Sechart. A woman and three men drowned.

Pederson said that there was no co-ordination of the rescue operation.

One Day Left to Get On B.C. Voters' List

Office Open Late

British Columbians have until midnight Thursday to get on the voters' lists for the Sept. 12 provincial election.

In Greater Victoria the registrar's office at 911 Gordon St. will remain open until that time.

Persons in the Esquimalt, Oak Bay, Victoria and Saanich polling districts may register there or at five sub-stations open until 5 p.m.

They are at Cunningham's Drug Store, Sidney; Royal Oak Pharmacy; Turnbull's Drug Store, Esquimalt, and Cudlipp's Store, Shawnigan Lake.

People who were on the voters' lists in the 1956 election and who have not moved,

Voting in the Sept. 12 provincial election will be from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. daylight saving time, chief electoral officer F. H. Hurley confirmed today.

Mr. Hurley said, although the Election Act refers to the polling hours as being on standard time, this is superseded by provisions of the Daylight Saving Act and the Interpretation Act.

still are eligible to vote this time.

If they have moved, or are not sure if they are on the lists, then they should contact the Greater Victoria registrar's office at EV 6-4711.

SIGNATURE
If they are not on the list, then a personal signature is required on application cards available at the registration centres.

"Husbands cannot sign for wives," said assistant electoral officer Sib Clark today.

He said people who have moved from one riding into another — say from Victoria into Oak Bay — and were formerly registered may either register or return to their former polling district and vote under the address at which they were originally registered.

Further provision will be announced later for absentee polling—that is for people caught away from their homes on Sept. 12.

Water Bomber Scores Hits Near Nanaimo

The Martin Mars water bomber based at Sprat Lake made three drops Tuesday afternoon on a forest fire near Nanaimo which were termed as satisfactory by men of MacMillan, Bloedel, and Powell River Ltd.

The fire broke out at 3 p.m. and soon was burning over MB-PR property and lands owned by John Gogo of Nanaimo. It was described as near extension, which is southwest of Nanaimo.

The big plane made its 7,000-gallon water pickups at Chemainus. It was reported the third trip was marred by trouble with the tank doors, which permitted about half the water to escape before it reached the fire.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me who owned the first car in Victoria? N.A.M.

A. The present coroner, Dr. E. C. Hart, who purchased a gas-driven car May 24, 1902.

Q. Could you, please tell me where to send for a birth certificate? I was born in Scotland. C.C.D.

A. Write The Registrar, New Registry House, Edinburgh 2, Scotland. Charge for a full certificate, 11 shilling parents' names and other details, is five shillings and threepence; for the shorter form, fee is two shillings and threepence.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

OLD SPANISH WRECK BRINGS DIVERS BACK

The amateur underwater explorers who discovered the now-famous "mystery wreck" in Sydney Inlet, on Vancouver Island's west coast, have returned for further wreck-hunting in B.C. waters.

Headed by Dr. George B. Cottrell of Portland, a team of five skin divers will leave Inner Harbor aboard the Seattle cruiser Cimba Thursday, weather permitting, for the Barkley Sound area.

There they plan to check out a report by a veteran fisherman that he spotted the wreck of a Spanish galleon in Pachena Bay 25 or 30 years ago.

THIRD BUS FOR BIG MUSIC TREAT

The Times' second "Bernstein Bus" which will take Victoria youngsters and their parents to the special Leonard Bernstein Children's Concert at Vancouver Forum next Tuesday morning—sold out as rapidly as the first.

As a result, the newspaper has arranged for a third and final bus, carrying a total of 111 Victoria ticket-holders, to the unique Vancouver Festival performance.

Problem of space on the Tsawwassen ferry was surmounted this morning when assistant manager Ron Worley said: "This is a good idea. We will be happy to clear accommodation for all three of the special charters."

III GOOD SEATS

From Vancouver, Festival manager Peter Bennett said: "We are all delighted with the response from Victoria. You can count on 111 good seats."

A point not made clear in previous announcements is that adults will now be accepted, whether accompanied by children or not.

The young people must have a "student card" which entitles them to a special rate. Package cost to them is $6.35 and to adults, $7.85, exclusive of meals en route.

Tickets must be picked up at Vancouver Island Coach Lines, 814 Wharf Street, either Friday or Saturday. Full loads of the three buses are required to benefit from the special charter rate.

The buses leave the Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot, adjoining the Black Ball ferry slip, at 8:10 a.m. Tuesday in time to catch the 9 a.m. Swartz Bay ferry. Concert starts at 11:30 a.m.

The buses will remain in Vancouver until the concert is over and return from Tsawwassen on the 3 p.m. sailing.

Accompanying the first two Victoria parties will be Times women's editor Bess Forbes and editorial secretary, Mrs. Elsie Edwards.

GRUBER GOING

Today, Victoria Symphony Orchestra conductor Hans Gruber accepted a Times invitation to accompany the Victoria caravan.

The Victoria maestro, who knows Bernstein well, spoke in glowing terms of his performance in broadening musical knowledge.

"To put it colloquially, Bernstein is a 'ball of fire,'" the young maestro told The Times. "I took a summer course with him at Tanglewood, Mass., in 1949, and have heard him conduct many times since. He is marvellous—a very brilliant man."

Victorians who go along on the special cavalcade will see one of the children's concerts which Bernstein has scheduled for 1960. With him is the 108-piece New York Philharmonic Orchestra, which is flying to Vancouver for its premier (already sold out) Monday evening.

BE PROMPT
Reservations for the third "Bernstein Bus" may be made with Mrs. Edwards at EV 2-3131.

In view of the shortage of time, prompt bookings are urged. It is expected that the last bus will be sold out by the time tickets go on sale at Vancouver Island Coach Lines Friday.

In applying for tickets, patrons will give their names, which will be checked against a manifest provided from Times reservations.

THURSDAY MEETINGS

Oak Bay Kiwanis: Oak Bay Beach Hotel, 6:15 p.m. "It's never too soon," by past president Robert Ferguson.

SEARED, SMOKED AND EXHAUSTED James Leggett, 510 Atkins Road, took time out for a short breather as he and other Langford fire department volunteers battled with racing bush fire Tuesday that ripped through scrub and young trees in the backyards of Goldstream Avenue homes north of Langford Lake.

AT LANGFORD

Fire-Hopping Day Spent By Volunteers

Langford's volunteer firemen were kept on the hop Tuesday by widely scattered bush fires.

Starting at 12:18 p.m. with a 30-acre blaze on Goldstream, the volunteers had their work cut out for the rest of the day and most of the night.

At 5:15 p.m. the Langford tank truck was sent to help out Colwood fire department with a two-acre blaze that broke out in the 3700 block Metcheson Road, at Albert Head.

Fifteen minutes later, another Langford crew went racing to Goldstream Provincial Park campsite to douse a fire tree that had caught fire, probably as a result of a cigarette butt.

At 6 p.m. the Langford fire dispatcher sent another crew out to Hall's Boathouse, at the foot of the Malahat, to nip in the bud a roadside blaze that was being fanned by strong winds and was about to "crown" out of control.

An hour later, the tank truck was sent back to the Goldstream Avenue fire for three hours and several firefighters stayed there overnight as a fire guard.

Mild Polio Hits Colwood Woman

A Colwood woman who had been under observation for some time as a polio suspect was confirmed as having a mild form of the disease at Royal Jubilee Hospital Tuesday.

She is Mrs. Hubert W. Ridley, 410 Terrahue, who is in satisfactory condition and does not require a respirator, the hospital said.

The woman is the 14th person under treatment or observation for polio at Jubilee, the Vancouver Island centre for all cases.

Hard Work, Wind Shift Saves Homes From Fire

Langford firemen today maintained a watch on a smouldering 30-acre area where a fierce bush fire Tuesday came close to destroying about a dozen Goldstream Avenue homes.

About 80 persons—including firemen, neighbors, volunteers and conscripts—battled the blaze Tuesday afternoon as it raced through scrub brush and young trees between the old Island Highway and Trans-Canada Highway.

Flames destroyed two chicken houses and ate their way to within a few feet of several homes in the 1100 block Goldstream. A shift in the wind saved the situation.

Furniture was moved from several homes as families evacuated them during the height of the blaze around 1:30 p.m. Mrs. P. J. Edmond, 1198 Goldstream, collapsed from heat and excitement after helping move all the furniture from her home. But she was revived quickly in a neighbor's home.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

B.C. Electric today asked city council for permission to make two route changes to provide bus stops at Kiwanis Village for senior citizens living there.

If approved, the outbound Cook-Maplewood bus would be routed along Kiwanis Way, Cedar Hill Road and Lang to Cook and the inbound Cook-Cedar Hill bus would be routed from Cook along Lang, Cedar Hill Road and Kiwanis Way to Cook.

Urgently needed are two air force greatcoats, four LAC uniforms, two water bottles, two army respirators, two sets of webbing equipment and four kit bags.

Prospective lenders are asked to phone Frank Allen, president, at EV 5-8677.

Victoria City Rowing Club, which includes speed boat owners and water skiers, Tuesday asked city council to continue its lease on some city-owned property at Elk Lake.

The city is preparing to cancel the lease because the club apparently had become dormant and was not fulfilling some conditions of the lease.

Opening of Victoria Theatre Guild's 1960-61 season is planned for Sept. 30 with the production at Langford Court Theatre of a light farce-comedy, "Jarius." Director will be Mrs. Phyllis Dulmage with Jim Dulmage assisting as stage manager.

Reading for this play will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at the director's home, 2011 Crescent Road.

Prospective members may attend and should apply to membership chairman Mrs. Betty Bishop, EV 4-3660.

Winners of Victoria Duplicate Bridge Club's weekly tournament Tuesday night were:

ON, OFF! OFF, ON?
The weather changes, but orders don't.

For two sweltering days, commissioners at HMC Dockyard hoped for an order telling them to off-jackets.

The order arrived this morning, along with a 26 degree drop in temperature.

CARS FROM ALL FIFTY STATES

A car from Newfoundland last week completed the list which also includes cars from France, England and numerous other countries.

An 18-year-old naval seaman was fined $50 when he pleaded guilty in Oak Bay police court today to attempted theft of a car early Monday.

He told police he wanted a ride back to his ship, HMCS Saguenay, at about 3:25 a.m., after visiting on Heron Street.

Police said he was seen attempting to cross ignition wires of a truck owned by Ian Allan Smith, where it was parked at 2609 Heron.

A charge under the Milk Act against Burdge Farms Ltd. was dismissed in a city police court today because of a technicality.

The firm was charged with having for human consumption raw milk which the bacteria content did not meet with regulations.

A change in ownership by Deanton Dairy, from which the tested milk samples were taken, made the charge void in the court's opinion.

Help in locating a mainland woman sought by her daughter-in-law was asked today by city police.

Detectives were asked to try to find Grace Pallos, who may also be known as Grace Parker or Grace Duncan.

DEAR ABBY

Well, It's an Excuse!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am very much in love with a man. He told me he was very fond of me but not to plan on marriage because he was married once and his wife double-crossed him and he will never be able to trust another woman again.

I love him, Abby, and have proved it in every way I know how, but he still says his bad experience can't let him trust another woman. Does his excuse make good sense to you?

WANTS WEDDING RING. DEAR WANTS: It makes about as much sense as a man who will borrow a car but refuses to buy one because he once got stuck with a lemon.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't tell me to send my husband to our clergyman because he would never go. In fact, he even stays away from funerals because he thinks the minister is talking about him.

My husband has a drinking problem. One night he was passed out on the sofa when my sister and her husband came over, so we just let him lay there. Suddenly he jumped up like a mad man and slapped my face. He said he saw me kissing my brother-in-law. He must have been dreaming. My sister took my part, so he kicked her. Then her husband got mad and hit my husband and the fight started. It took the police to break it up.

I left my husband that night. A week later his mother called and said he had a stroke, so I ran over. It wasn't a stroke. He was dead drunk again. Abby, he is so grand when he is sober—a good worker and good father to our four kiddies. He promised if I'd take him back he'd quit drinking. How can I tell if he means it this time? He's promised before.

DEAR WIFE: Give him another chance on condition that he show his sincerity by calling "A.A." Thousands of alcoholics have returned to lives of sobriety and self-respect with the help of this organization. And like the best things in life—it's free!

DEAR ABBY: We are newlyweds who just moved into an apartment. An elderly couple (he is an invalid) have the apartment across the hall. They seem to be very nice people, but here is the problem:

The first morning we were here I smelled a burnt toast from their apartment. I let it go, thinking anybody can accidentally burn toast. The next morning I smelled burnt toast again. The same thing happened on the third morning. Finally I went over there and asked her how come she was burning the toast every morning. She said her husband liked it that way. Should I complain to the landlord? My husband says for me to skip it.

BOTHERED. DEAR BOTHERED: I agree with your husband.

Confidential to Chris: Get off the farm once in a while. You won't find a bride in the Sears and Roebuck catalogue.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers all letters.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Special Exercises Can Do Much for Flabby Arms

A woman's upper arms are likely to betray her into looking old before she actually is. We just do not use our arms in a way to avoid this unless we are active in sports. However, special exercises can prevent and im-

1. Stand tall. Raise the arms sideward, shoulder height, palms facing toward the ceiling. Clench the fists as you turn the palms toward the floor and back toward the back of the room as far as possible. Unclench fists and again turn palms toward the ceiling. Continue, keeping the arms at shoulder height and clenching the fists hard.

2. I have given this one before but it is so good that I am repeating it again today. Bend the elbows up in front of the body about shoulder height, palms toward the body. Straighten the elbows and swing the arms down and back, turning the palms toward the back of the room. Again bend elbows and continue.

If you would like to have my leaflet "Armfuls of Beauty" send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 11 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Metchisin Setting For Vows

Cream and gold tones were used in floral decorations in St. Mary's Church, Metchisin, for the marriage of Georgette Rose, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Peden of the Malahat, and Thomas, Richard Clapham, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Clapham of Happy Valley. Dr. A. W. R. Ashley officiated.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of nylon sheer, embroidered in gold and posed over cream satin. Fitted bodice was of low-torso design with full skirt. A tiny crown of gold with aurora borealis stones held her waist-length veil and her bouquet was sweetheart roses. She was given in marriage by her father.

Crystal charm waltz-length dresses in turquoise tone were worn by bridal attendants, Mrs. I. Creig, Miss Baizette Peden and Miss Jeannie Clapham. They wore whimsy-hair and carried bouquets of gold gladioli.

Best man was Ray Clapham, groom's brother, and ushers were Bob Henson and John Forgie. Mrs. E. N. Avery was organist.

A silver knife, a wedding gift, was used by the newlyweds to cut their three-tier cake at a reception at the home of the bride's parents, S. Rickinson, proposed the toast.

Leaving on a wedding trip Up-Island, the bride donned a navy blue suit with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was a gardenia.

Start Day Looking Pretty

The first thing the average Canadian woman does on arising in the morning is grope her way to the kitchen for a cup of coffee. After that first cup, she can think about facing her particular day.

But what, in the meantime, does she look like, both to herself and her family? For many women, a peep into the bathroom mirror is a shuddery matter. For peering back is a wan face encircled by metal clips or bristling with bobby pins.

The weird effect is sometimes heightened by rollers. It's not really the ideal way to start the day.

What can you do about it? Well, you can start by covering up those curlers. Use a pretty ruffled nylon cap or a length of pastel veiling wrapped into a turban. Use a light moisture cream before you go to bed. It need not be heavy grease.

If there's a residue when you awaken, reach for a cleansing cream.

If you don't want a double chin by the time you're in your early 30s, take care of your neck now. Don't dig your chin into your coat collar. Don't stare at the sidewalk as you walk along. Carry your head high, with a proud look.

When you read, hold your book up. Don't put it in your lap so that your head droops forward as you turn pages.

And remember to cream your neck every night just as thoroughly as you cream your face.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

A chilled canned peach half filled with raspberry sherbet makes a festive dessert. Reminiscent of Peach Melba, this is a refreshing dessert at the end of a heavy meal. Serve with a crisp almond-topped cookie.

Summer barbecues are in full swing now, and a casserole makes a perfect accompaniment to broiled meats. When a tamale dish is on the menu, add a generous amount of big-ripe olive wedges to the tomato mixture for extra flavor and richness.

When your budget needs stretching, or unexpected company appears, make a broad stuffing and use it for making the meat or fish dish go further. Try the stuffing with baked fish, chops, roasts or meat loaf and you'll find two portions can be turned into three.

prove the flabby by condition which detracts so much from an attractive appearance. Some women have extremely large upper arms, much larger than they should be, according to weight and other proportions. This tendency is usually inherited and is often dictated by the glandular set-up. If one is overweight, a general loss in poundage also will reduce the upper arms.

The flabby upper arm is our main concern today. I wrote about this not long ago but I have had such an influx of letters concerning this condition that I am bringing you more information. So many women are wearing sundresses and swim suits now that their attention has been called to this defect.

Exercise is the only answer! The following exercises must be taken daily and it will be a few weeks or even a couple of months before you notice a difference, but the effort is well worth the result.

Invited guests included Mrs. Leslie Follett-Osborne, mother of the bride-elect, and the Misses Diane Moore, Linda Gibson, Betty Wurtele, Roxanna Brand, Joan Kevsch, Catherine Dangerfield, Roberta Hall, Dorothy Edgelow, Gloria McLeod, Vicky Husband, Janet Crane, Mildred Forsyth and Myrna Eardley.

Going to Helsinki

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wardrop and son Lawrence are crossing the Atlantic at present in the Empress of Britain, en route to Helsinki, where Mr. Wardrop will be attached to the recently opened Canadian Embassy there. They will spend two weeks in London before going on to Helsinki. Both Mr. and Mrs. Wardrop are well known on Vancouver Island, the former being originally from Duncan and the latter a daughter of Alderman

Mrs. Lily Wilson in this city. In the early summer Mrs. Wardrop and Lawrence spent some time with Mrs. Wilson here.

Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Smith, 3146 Orillia Street, will celebrate their 51st wedding anniversary on Sunday, with a family dinner party.

Guide Camp Concludes

Two Guides from England and two from each of the Canadian provinces made up a group that has completed 10 days under canvas at Vic Van Isle Kinsmen Jubilee Girl Guide Camp at Kirby Creek, near Shirley, V.I. Mrs. A. Westinghouse was camp commandant and she was assisted by Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Turner. On Sunday, the girls were "at home" to many visitors, and in the evening were hostesses to 24 Rover and Boy Scouts, who drove out from Victoria for supper. Other activities included a hike to the Sherringham Point Light Station, and one to Point No Point where they spent the night at the beachhouse.

Double Rings Exchanged At Casilio-Coe Wedding

Rev. A. Avery officiated at the double-ring ceremony in Centennial United Church that united Gloria Elaine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Coe, and Robert John, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Casilio, all of Victoria. Bill Hoosie sang "The Wedding Prayer" and Mrs. Margaret Wilmhurst played organ music. Pink and white gladioli decorated the church and satin streamers marked the pews for the evening ceremony.

The fair-haired bride, who was given in marriage by her father, chose a street-length white satin gown styled on princess lines with a full panel back. Tiny jacket featured lily point sleeves and button trim. Her chapel veil was held by a pearl tiara and she carried long-stemmed pink roses.

Matron of honor for her sister, Mrs. Darleen Bannister, wore a street-length pink taffeta jacket dress with chiffon overlay. Her slippers and headpiece were en tone.

Bridesmaids and flower girl, who were gowned identically to Mrs. Bannister, were the Misses Joan Cooper, Janet Lidman and Betty-Anne Coe. Matron of honor carried yellow gladioli and bridesmaids carried orchid gladioli. A colonial bouquet of carnations centred with a red rose was held by flower girl Betty-Anne.

Colin Clark was best man. Larry Elwood and Jack Coe, twin brother of the bride, ushered. Master Bobby Coe was ring bearer. Victoria Girls Drill Team formed a guard of honor for the newlyweds as they left the church.

A three-tier cake made by the bride's mother centred the table at a reception in Club Tango. Sweet peas and pink gladioli surrounded the cake. Jack Bunker, uncle of the bride, proposed the toast to her happiness.

For a honeymoon trip to Seattle the bride donned a blue and white two-piece suit, blue rosette hat, blue gloves and white carnation corsage. Upon return the newlyweds will live in Birkwood Apartments.

Only Lady In Camp

CAMP CRUMLIN, Ont. (CP)—As the only maid among 423 men, Sgt. Susan Nakata liked her job.

Dressed in bush clothing similar to militia men at this army survival camp near London, she was employed in the orderly room for the two-week summer camp period.

The 28-year-old sergeant, a native of Vancouver who now lives in Windsor, Ont., ate only one meal a day at the camp. She slept in the London home of a CWAC sergeant.

A member of the CWAC since 1954, she serves as a storeman with 39 Technical Squadron RECOME of Windsor. When the men came to camp, it was only natural that the sergeant came too, although it came as a surprise to her to find she was the only girl here.

What might have been a dream for other single girls—having so many men to choose from—was nothing more than business for Susan. She is engaged to be married.

"FOREST" CEDAR SIDING
WHAT IS FOREST SIDING?

"Made of dry 1 1/2" stick in 10 and 12-inch widths. FOREST siding is a new type of siding obtained from specially selected cedar logs having no knots, no decay and character of KNOX boards.

APPEARANCE?
For homes and buildings where a distinctive and pleasing appearance is desired, enhanced by heavy shadow lines, the interlocking knots running in 2-inch in 12-inch widths add to the rustic appearance of this grade.

WHAT ARE ITS QUALITIES?
"FOREST" siding, with its substantial thickness and great wood volume, adds to the structural STRENGTH and solidity of the building.

The design of "FOREST" siding ensures a tight weather seal at the joint which, together with its thickness and fluid-base principle, makes excellent material for the INSULATION standpoint.

"FOREST" siding represents an ECONOMY to home-builders.
Costing less than most other types, it is easy to install and ensures easy fitting and speedy application at less labor cost.

HOW IS IT APPLIED?
As easily and quickly as common shiplap. Each piece of "FOREST" siding fits snugly on the one below and requires only one mitre cut.

HOW CAN IT BE FINISHED?
If a natural finish is desired, use standard wood preservative and a light coat of oil or stain.
If a painted finish is desired,
the joint which, together with its thickness and fluid-base principle, makes excellent material
for the INSULATION standpoint.

TV With Lee

Red Buttons, Nancy Wickwire Star in Mystery Hour at 10 on 7, 11

By PHIL LEE Times TV Editor

I AM BEGINNING to wonder if hydroplane racing is meant for television, that is in the ratio of consecutive hours devoted to it this past weekend. Wouldn't an hour-long or even a 90-minute wrap up of highlights after the final lap achieve the same entertainment purposes?

My ponderings don't stem from the races themselves, which are often exciting as underscored by Sunday's mishaps (a sky-diver who ended up in hospital with serious chest injuries, the spectacular flip of Wahoo, the fire in Miss U.S. 1), but from the apparent inability of race officials to take charge.

One would think that after last year's hassle, which saw them take something like two hours after the final race to declare a winner, they would arrive on the scene this time heavily armed to meet any emergency. But they weren't.

Certainly it wouldn't be fair in any way to blame those holding the rule books for Sunday's fiasco that had to be called owing to darkness. It was just one of "those days," a series that can happen to any sport.

But my complaint is that after a night and a half-day to mull over the situation they were still unable to name Bill Muncey and Miss Thriftway winners at the close of the contest on Monday.

Why? Because the final race may not be approved by the American Power Boat Association under whose auspices the Sealair races are run. The final decision may not be known for days or even weeks.

Surely a governing body such as this has rules to cover all exigencies as they arise? What if baseball officials were unable to rule on a controversial play at the moment? Or hockey officials or any other sport you would care to mention?

It would soon ruin that sport in the minds of its followers. As it stands now thousands upon thousands of viewers followed the destiny of the high-flying boats and their brave pilots for hours on end to wind up not with a decision but with an indecision.

Meanwhile a bow towards commentators and cameramen of covering stations. The challenge was there and I felt that they generally met each difficult and unusual situation as they arose, dealing with them in turn in a thoroughly professional and competent manner.

ALTHOUGH I HAVE ALWAYS KNOWN what an Easter egg it is not until Monday night that I learned what an Easter egg is—that, of course, is the giant, king-sized effort that Esther Williams laid.

About all you could say for the hour-long color extravaganza on NBC was that it dealt with water and chilled beer, two items that must have pleased parched, hot Victorians and Vancouver Islanders, albeit vicariously.

But these were not enough. "Esther Williams at Cypress Gardens" was billed as a play and as such it was all wet, more from conception than environment. It has been said in some quarters that Miss Williams penned the affair herself which is only fair to mention in order that no professional scripter may be blamed.

But by golly you've got to admire the girl. She can hold her breath longer underwater than Sea Hunt's Mike Nelson—and he's got aqualungs. What's more she can smile all the while which must be the nearest trick since the lotus position in Yoga.

FREED AFTER 1,247 DAYS

MONTREAL (CP) — Laborer Robert Sauve, 23, will be freed today after spending 41 months in the mental wing of Montreal's Bordeaux Jail.

Informed sources said prison officials have decided to release Sauve on the eve of the scheduled presentation of a writ of habeas corpus seeking to have him freed.

Sauve, alias Pierre Dupont, alleges that he was held illegally for the 1,247 days.

NEW ERA

No Walking Soldiers In Future

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The army unveiled plans Tuesday for radically advanced field forces which would feature increased nuclear firepower and a wonderful era of no walking soldiers.

Lt. Gen. John C. Oakes, deputy chief of staff for military operations, said the plan for new riding and flying field armies, calling for greater firepower, mobility and electronic communications and reconnaissance devices, would add $2,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 annually to army spending. Present spending runs between $8,000,000,000 and $9,000,000,000.

Weapons and equipment of the "modern mobile army" — 1965-70, "otherwise known as 'MOMAR,'" will include air vehicles that fly just above the "nap of the earth," conventional and nuclear weapons which can be fired from the shoulder and a new, main battle tank which the army hopes will weigh no more than 35 or 40 tons so the air force can transport it in airplanes.

"There will always be times when the soldier must dismount to fight," he said.

VOTES, NOTES, QUOTES

Liberals Jazz It Up Tonight

Victoria Liberals have borrowed a bit of Social Credit's "razzle-dazzle" for their opening campaign rally tonight at Liberal Headquarters, 1322A Government Street.

A lively Dixieland jazz band will swing into action outside headquarters at 7:45 p.m. with the idea of attracting a big crowd.

Liberal buttons, stickers and car bumper cards will be distributed. City candidates George Gregory, Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow and Forrest L. Shaw will speak on key election issues, starting soon after 8 p.m.

"We expect a lively meeting," says David Hummell, the Grits' campaign manager.

Why Grit? This is an old Liberal term of Canadian origin which has been revived for the current campaign. It was first used in eastern Canada in 1849 by a candidate named Peter Parry who said "we want all sand, no dirt but clean grit in the Liberal Party."

Oak Bay Progressive Conservative candidate James George is taking no chances on his supporters being kept away from the polls by domestic problems.

Today he announced that qualified baby-sitters and "overnighters" will be supplied by his organization on election day, Sept. 12.

A campaign circular says accurate records of thousands of house-to-house calls made by Mr. George up to Aug. 1 "show a mathematical certainty of a Conservative victory in Oak Bay if all our supporters register their ballots."

"Mr. George is an optimist," retorted Alan Cox, who is campaigning for Liberal candidate Alan Macfarlane in Oak Bay.

Evidently Premier Bennett doesn't agree with Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi that this will be "a dirty election campaign."

"My own opinion is that it is going to be a very clean campaign," the premier said.

"We're all ready to go," says J. G. Austin, in charge of Victoria Progressive Conservative campaign.

Victoria Tories have set up headquarters at 1676 Douglas.

Nigel Morgan, provincial leader of the B.C. Communist Party, has accused Premier Bennett of calling "a snap election" in order to avoid any real debate on his government's policies.

"The Communist Party already has its 19 candidates in the field," he told a party meeting in Vancouver, "and we're going to fight this election on vital issues."

Mr. Morgan says Communists are needed in the B.C. Legislature to expose "the big business policies" of the Social, Tory and Liberal parties.

A movement is afoot in Vancouver to switch the football match between Calgary Stampede and B.C. Lions from Sept. 12 to Sept. 13.

It seems football enthusiasts don't want election day polling interfering with an important game...

Oak Bay Liberal candidate Alan Macfarlane will address at least four public meetings in his riding between now and Labor Day, Sept. 1.

He is also making a number of house-to-house calls after the fashion set by his Conservative opponent James George. Oak Bay Liberals have just set up campaign headquarters at 1968 Oak Bay Avenue.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston will speak on "The Rocky Mountain Trench and the Truth About So-Called Giveaways" when he campaigns in support of Saanich Social Credit John Tisdale in Lake Hill Women's Institute Hall, Quadra Street, Thursday at 8 p.m.

A Saanich youth who stole $57 worth of tires and oil from an all-night service station was bonded in Saanich police court Tuesday to be of good behavior for a year when sentence was suspended.

Ronald Fagan, 17, of 1028 Inverness, was put on $500 bond by Magistrate William Ostler.

He had pleaded guilty — a first offence — to stealing two tires and 10 quarts of oil from Trans-Canada Service Station, Burnside and Trans-Canada, on July 23.

Opera Boycott Spreads

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto's Peking Opera Company, Chong Chinese community plans to picket the mayor of China, the Royal Alexandra Theatre, during the performances of the company's tour, said Tuesday.

He said Toronto Chinese also will picket the hotel where members of the company are staying and boycott all the company's performances. The troupe's Toronto engagement begins Sept. 5.

A statement prepared by Chinese communities from Montreal to Vancouver says "a penny spent today for attending the Peking Opera is a penny invested in the Communist war chest which will one day be used against us all."

The statement, in both English and Chinese, will be released at each stop on the Peking Opera Company's route. Members of the pro-Peking Chinese-Canadian Welfare Society Tuesday visited several Chinese merchants in Toronto but were given a cold reception in most places.

"Ninety-nine per cent of the Chinese in Canada are strongly anti-Communist," Mr. Chong said.

Ernest M. Rawley, general manager of the Royal Alexandra Theatre, said many Chinese-Canadians have been asking to buy tickets.

But he predicted the Chinese government would not make any money from the tour because of its limited number of performances.

"The whole tour is financially crazy from their standpoint," he said. "For whatever reason the Chinese government has for sending the Peking Opera on tour, they're paying for it."

AA (Oscar Class) B (For Rainy Days) C (To put in time)

(BB PLUS) "MAN ON A STRING" (Royal) — How do ordinary, normal citizens become involved in communism? Caught in the Red toils himself, Hollywood film producer Ernest Borgnine admits to U.S. federal agents that he isn't sure, looking back. It all happened so casually, so simply. Then suddenly one is hooked inextricably in the unforgiving net.

This is possibly the major lesson to be learned by Columbia's spy yarn, "Man on a String," a 92-minute adaptation of part of film producer Boris Morros' book, "Ten Years as a Counterspy," scripted for the screen by John Kafka and Virginia Shaler.

It all starts off with members of the Central Bureau of Intelligence attaching themselves to Borgnine, suspecting that his studio is gradually being taken over by the Commies. Actually Borgnine, a Russian-born American, has made it possible for Red agent Alexander Scourby to meet people of influence in order to have his father, Vladimir Sokoloff, sent to him from behind the Iron Curtain. He also hopes that more such favors will ingratiate him with the Russians to an extent that they will allow his brothers to join him in America as well.

Unfortunately for the pace of "Man on a String" the dialogue often hinders the pace with the result that lack of movement causes the picture to pall. It also allows one the time to wonder if the film isn't an outright propaganda pitch to the American people to beware and guard themselves accordingly.

Nonetheless, the film gives one an interesting insight into the mechanics now available for spying. For instance, the CBI men are shown training a gadget on the windows of a home where spies are believed to be operating. Through this apparatus conversations can be overheard and duly recorded.

As usual Borgnine gives a convincing performance. He is one actor the winning of an Academy Award (for "Marty") hasn't appeared to harm career-wise. He receives able support from Kerwin Mathews as his assistant and govern-

ARRESTED ON WAY TO BANK

Rent Collector Helped Himself

A former caretaker and rent collector at a Fort Street hotel admitted in city police court Tuesday stealing $169.80 in rent money.

Rolph Pannbacker, now of Prince Rupert, stole the money from J. A. Burchett and Peter Burchett, owners of Central Rooms, 819 Fort, between April 18 and June 20.

He told Magistrate William Ostler he hadn't spent all the money on himself. Some of it went to buy paint, and to fix the walls of the hotel.

He'll be sentenced Friday.

Louis Arthur Keen, property manager for Ker & Stephenson, agents for the owners, said Pannbacker failed to turn in rent money weekly.

He said Pannbacker got $50 a week plus his room in exchange for his duties at the building.

"The accused said he was arrested on his way to the bank to cash his first week's cheque after taking a job at Prince Rupert. Twenty dollars of the pay was slated for Ker & Stephenson, toward the owed rent money, he said.

He'll Face The Music On Friday

Charged with converting an accordion into $30 cash, Donald Richard Prosser, no fixed address, pleaded guilty in city police court Tuesday to the unusual theft charge.

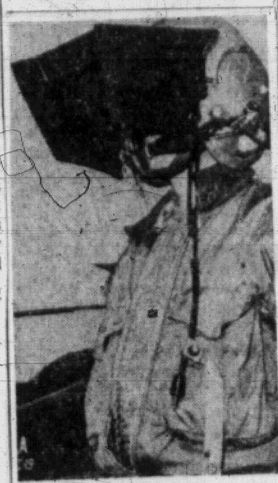

RCMP Sgt. G. W. Tomlinson said Prosser was with Peter Sunberg, of Ladysmith, at a drinking party last month in Ladysmith and Sunberg left his accordion in Prosser's car.

The owner purchased it for $500 originally but placed a value of $200 on the instrument when it disappeared.

About a week later, after leaving the instrument with his landlady in Victoria, Prosser sold or pawned it to W. A. Scott, of Broad Street Trading and Pawnbroker Co., 1421 Broad, where the RCMP seized it.

Magistrate William Ostler remanded Prosser to Friday for probation report and sentence.

CHIEF AT WHEEL

Fire Truck Commuting To Oak Bay

Oak Bay Fire Chief William Pearson is thundering towards Victoria today from Montreal driving a Thibault 625-imperial gallon triple combination pumper, Class A.

Accompanying the chief is his 13-year-old son Gregory. They, with the Thibault, left Montreal Monday and are due in Kingston today.

Toronto, Thursday and Winnipeg on the 14th.

It's not the first such venture for the chief. Last year he piloted an aerial ladder truck from Eastern Canada.

ROAD TEST

A fire department official today, asked the "why" of the cross-country fire truck commuting, said simply "somebody has to drive it."

"The venture is in the nature of a road test. Acceptance is made on its arrival here, so if there is anything wrong en route..."

Tourists Buy Works of Young Park Artists

After six weeks, this year's painting in the park classes are over—though by no means forgotten by the children, who in all probability are planning a further session next year.

At the moment the best of each student's work is on display at Eaton's.

"The classes are becoming more popular each year," Mrs. Christine Francis said Monday. Mrs. Francis organizes the local classes for the Federation of Canadian Artists.

"Three years ago we started off with 50 children. This year there were 300 children and almost 100 more had to be turned away. I feel sure the number will reach 500 next year," she said.

Ages range from 6-16 but she thought the most enthusiastic ages were from 9-11. The classes in Beacon Hill Park provided a ready attraction for tourists who did not hesitate to praise or criticize. Sometimes the Americans offered to buy the children's efforts and some of the children, surprised and delighted, willingly gave away their paintings as a present!

Mrs. Francis said she did not mind the children accepting a dollar or two for a particular painting but was wary of letting them accept anything higher.

"It's not good of them to get an exaggerated idea of their ability," she said.

The best paintings from each class—there are 11 classes—are being judged by the federation's director in Vancouver.

He will decide which of the children are to receive the federation's $100 scholarship.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

COLUMBUS, O.—I've been sneaking back to God's country—the great state of Ohio—recently, and I didn't have to sneak back, either.

Ohio's the state of celebrities. Hollywood would be dead without it. Ohio gave us Bob Hope, Clark Gable, Dean Martin, Doris Day, James Thurber, Dr. Frank Stanton, Jack Paar, Hugh Downs, Patricia Wilson, Pat Stanley, Dody Goodman, Vaughn Monroe, Ellen Hanley, Tom Poston, Sammy Kaye, Milton Caniff, Hopalong Cassidy, Roy Rogers and Herb Shriner. We don't mention Shriner too much, because he says, "I was born in Ohio, but moved to Indiana as soon as I heard about it."

Frankly, I was back in Ohio looking for corn relish.

My beautiful wife, the B.W., loves corn relish. "Ohio has the best corn relish in the union," I assured her. "We'll find it instantly."

It was very strange to me that we couldn't find any store that had any... and that people looked at me rather strangely when I asked for it.

I found corn relish finally in a super-market just outside Columbus.

Personally I saw nothing amusing—as B.W. did—(she even regarded it as hilarious)—That the corn relish was bottled in Chicago. I'm sure it was Ohio corn. My B.W. says if anybody knows what Ohio corn is, I do.

ON SIBERIA QUESTION

City Boy, 8, Wins Big World Atlas

Newest winner of an "Ask Andy" prize here is eight-year-old Melvin Klassen, who won a Hammond's World Atlas from the writer of the popular science column appearing daily in the Times for his question on northern Siberia.

It is answered in the column on this page today.

Melvin was born in New Westminster, but came to Victoria five years ago, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Klassen, of 1464 Stroud Road. He has a younger brother and sister.

THREE IN TWO
He is a good student, and having covered the first three grades at Oaklands School in two years, will go into grade 4 in September. He gets high grades in all subjects, but he shines at mathematics, and likes science best of all. Rocketry and space travel are his chief interests right now.

The family keeps busy taking Melvin, back and forth from the public library, and he is filling in a few mornings with the Painting in the Park program here.

SWIMS, SKATES
This one is no bookworm, though. He is learning to swim at the "Y," and is capable enough on ice skates to hold down a berth on a junior team.

The future is still a long way off. When asked if he knew what he wanted to be when he grew up, he answered with a laconic "Nope."

HE GIVES AWAY
GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the question he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia, and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Melvin Klassen, aged 8, of Victoria, B.C., for his question:

Where Do We Find a Taiga?

Taiga is not a fancy way of spelling tiger—in fact it has nothing to do with the animal kingdom. Like sputnik, the word taiga comes to us from the Russian language. The Russians use it to describe a vast, wet, swampy region in Siberia. This territory begins just south of the cold, northern tundra.

In a tundra region, the surface of the ground thaws only during the summer season. A few feet below the surface, the ground is always frozen. The taiga region is wet and swampy way down deep. There are also taiga regions south of the tundras of Europe and North America.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Morris Buchanan, age 12, of Clayton, Ind., for his question:

How does a seismograph work?

Seismology is the study of earthquakes and a seismograph is the instrument used to record the size, time and place of earthquakes. It works by responding to the smallest shakes and trembles in the earth's crust. The earthquake itself takes place maybe miles below the surface in the rocky layers of the earth's crust. It

Vibrations from an earthquake reach the seismograph from the horizontal and from the vertical. In a seismograph centre, there are usually three instruments. One records the vibrations from the north-south horizontal, one records those from the east-west horizontal and one records the up and down vibrations. All of them are able to record the size of the earthquake from the strength of the vibrations.

VANCOUVER ISLAND ROUNDUP

Two Men Die In Crashes; Youth Drowns

Two persons died in accidents in the Alberni area Tuesday and a third Island man died of injuries suffered Sunday.

Leo Francoeur, 12, drowned while bathing at Sproat Lake, apparently when he walked beyond his depth. Earlier in the day Dominico Lanfranco, 54, of Qualicum Beach, died after his car struck an abutment on a bridge in Cathedral Grove, near Cameron Lake.

Dr. C. Pitts, Port Alberni coroner, was scheduled to make an inquiry into the crash. John Everall, 70, of Willow Point, near Campbell River, died Tuesday in Campbell River General Hospital of injuries suffered Sunday when his car crashed into a telephone pole near the village and was demolished. He was alone in the car at the time.

Still missing and presumed drowned is Nicholas Bruijn, seaman from a Dutch freighter, who has not been seen since he went for a swim around his berthed ship at Port Alberni Saturday.

SOOKE—The birling Wickheim brothers of Sooke have returned home after having won, for the sixth consecutive year, the International Rolo Association log rolling championship, held this year at Hayward, Wis.

Winner this year was Jubel, defending champion, who also won the title in 1955 and 1957. Ardie, who placed third this year, won the 1955 and 1958 titles.

SIDNEY—Decision to bar distribution of advertising leaflets at the Anacortes ferry wharf was reversed by the Village Commission after businessmen protested.

Eric McMorran had been prohibited from giving out pamphlets in contravention of a village bylaw, but businessmen said he was directing motorists through the village and helping trade.

NORTH COWICHAN—The municipal public works supervisor, Perry Ross, will attend the municipal engineers' division of the Association of Professional Engineers of B.C. annual convention at Trail, Sept. 22, 23 and 24.

MAPLE BAY—North Cowichan municipality recently accepted the tender of $475 from George Whittaker to clear the playground site now overgrown with weeds at Maple Bay.

Other bids for the work were as follows: K. Jordan, Duncan, $490, and Taylor Brothers, Duncan, $695.

DUNCAN—Robert Benny Spinks of Cowichan Bay was fined $20 or 15 days and paid $5.50 court costs in Duncan police court on conviction for careless driving.

DUNCAN—Harry Lumb, Vancouver, in court here was sentenced to four months imprisonment after pleading guilty to charges of false pretences by means of a worthless cheque.

DUNCAN—Graylands Farm, on Norcross Road, will show 28 head of registered Southdown sheep this year at Saanichton, Nanaimo, Cowichan and Vancouver fairs.

Five of the sheep to be shown are a ram and four yearling ewes sold to an Oregon breeder, and which will be delivered after the fair showings.

Owners of Graylands are Mr. and Mrs. R. H. M. Shaw.

DUNCAN—A bid of $6,292 for a 100-foot by 34-foot livestock barn submitted by Brownsey and Sons, Duncan, was successful tender of two offered to build a barn on the Cowichan exhibition grounds before the Sept. 9 and 10 fair.

The new barn will house 50 head of cattle or 30 horses and is designed by Hammond and Farmer, architects of Duncan.

DUNCAN—Clifford Lyle Hinton of HMCS Naden Tuesday was fined $20 or 15 days and paid $5.50 court costs after pleading guilty before Magistrate A. C. Sutton in Duncan police court to a charge of operating an unlicensed vessel.

Hinton was the operator of a class B utility hydroplane owned by Dennis Kempton, Victoria, on Shawnigan Lake, July 24, when a check of small boats was carried out by RCMP Cons. Hugh Bowyer.

Under section five, subsection B, of the small vessels regulations all boats carrying 10-horsepower engines and up must be licensed.

Doesn't the navy know marine regulations?" asked Magistrate Sutton.

"It was pretty embarrassing, I have to admit," Hinton said.

FOR POWER LINE

Permission Granted 4 Years Late

(From Duncan Bureau)

Four years after spanning Georgia Strait and a good part of Vancouver Island with a 132,000-volt submarine and aerial power line, B.C. Electric has been given a right of way for the line over the Maple Bay foreshore.

Reeve D. C. Morton this week told North Cowichan municipal council, which granted the belated permission, that legally the strip of foreshore had never been granted.

The power line from the mainland goes under the sea at Tsawwassen for a 16-mile crossing of Georgia Strait by submarine cable, crosses Galiano by aerial cable, goes under sea for three miles to Salt Spring Island and makes the last water crossing over San Juan Narrows by overhead span to connect with the conventional land line on Vancouver Island.

It was built in the summer of 1956. Total cost of the project was in excess of $3,000,000.

CURFEW MUFFLES GO-CARTS

PORT ALBERNI—Go-carts racing on a newly-built track in the Glenwood area here have found themselves muffled by a temporary curfew.

There were 63 signatures on a petition to city council to silence the miniature racers. Many of the signers were mill workers who complained the open exhausts on the little cars' one-cylinder engines gave them no chance to sleep.

Mayor Loran Jordan, who admitted he said founding of the track in the first place was "a heck of a good idea," told council he did not realize the tiny speedsters made so much noise.

They are not banned completely. They can run between the hours of 1 and 9 p.m., while members of the Alberni Valley Go-Kart Association test mufflers which they hope will permit unlimited operation.

RIVER EROSION IRKS DUNCAN

'Better Keep After Them'

(From Duncan Bureau)

Duncan city council, which holds the provincial highways department responsible for erosion in Cowichan River east of Silver Bridge, will continue to press for preventive action.

The department informed council this week it assumes no responsibility for the erosion, but Ald. James H. Saunders claims the trouble is caused by the river bed having been made so wide. "We had better keep after them," said Mayor J. T. Dobson.

The city is requesting bulldozer work on the river bank during low water in an effort to prevent further trouble. Council will instruct the city traffic inspector to investigate the parking of trucks at the government liquor store on Canada Avenue near Ingram Street.

FOUR HOURS

Ald. James A. F. Mutter brought the matter to council's attention this week when he said he had seen one truck parked from 8.50 a.m. to 1.10 p.m.

"It doesn't take four hours to unload one truck," he said. The parked truck forced pedestrians to detour from the sidewalk to avoid the unloading ramp and walk on the travelled portion of the street, he said.

Ald. S. H. Saunders complimented the citizens of Duncan on the fact that "they are pay-

GROWING PAINS

Ald. Saunders said the water pressure in the hospital hill area was low most of the day.

"If I have a tap on in my basement I can't draw water upstairs," Ald. Saunders said. "We're just expanding so fast we can't supply the water," said Mayor Dobson. "It's not garden sprinkling but the fact that we have so many water users."

Water Extension Asked for School

DUNCAN—Reeve D. C. Morton of North Cowichan has been approached by a group of Sherman Road residents asking the municipality to assist in a plan to extend city of Duncan water service to the new Junior High School under construction at Somenos.

Reeve Morton today said a meeting will be held in the near future between the city, Cowichan School Board and members of the North Cowichan Council.

The school board has taken two surveys for two alternate routes for extension of city water service. The cost of extension would be about $11,000 and the school board is acting "only as a another property owner." The department of education indicated earlier that the board should not act as a body setting up a water service.

A third alternative would be a well and pumping system on the site. Pacific Wells have guaranteed sufficient volume of water from one of two deep wells at a cost of $1,500.

'Lady Chatterley' Defenders Scored

TORONTO (CP)—Two Canadian authors contributed to the spread of adultery, prostitution and venereal disease by defending D. H. Lawrence's Lady Chatterley's Lover in a Montreal court, the director of the Health League of Canada says.

In an editorial in the league's magazine, Health, Dr. Gordon Bates said novelists Morley Callaghan and Hugh MacLennan "should have their heads read."

The authors had argued before sessions Judge T. A. Fontaine that the Lawrence novel was not obscene. The judge subsequently banned the book in Quebec.

Interviewed today, Dr. Bates said he thinks Callaghan, MacLennan and many university English professors

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Congoese Premier Patrice Lumumba was injured tonight while trying to help quell riots which broke out between his followers and rival Federalist groups of Africans.

The rioting started when Lumumba's United Congo followers tried to enter the headquarters of the Federalist Abako Party leaders in the Bendale district of the capital.

The Abako members resisted the forced entrance of the Lumumba group and fighting broke out.

Abako vice-president Vital Moanda was injured along with two Abako guards at the doorway.

Hearing of the fight, which rapidly attracted hundreds of onlookers, Lumumba jumped into a car and drove from his residence to the Bendale sector.

Arriving at the Abako party headquarters, Lumumba tried to calm the mob which by then had risen to several thousand and was battling with police.

Lumumba jumped out of his car, but ran into Abako supporters. He was slapped around and punched in the face. But he dived back into his car and drove away, presumably back to his residence.

The rioting was the second report of violence during the day. Earlier, United Nations sources said five Tunisian soldiers of the UN contingent were killed in skirmishes with tribesmen in the Luluabourg area of the Kasai Province three days ago.

Meanwhile Katanga Premier Moise Thombe told United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld today he is ready to start negotiations for the entry of United Nations forces into the province.

Thombe's reply said Katanga was "anxious to contribute to a peaceful solution at all times."

Woods Closely Guarded

B.C. Forest Service rangers and their staffs today patrolled wooded areas of Vancouver Island south of Bowser to evict campers still in the woods in spite of a forest closure which went into effect at midnight.

There are plenty of organized and private campsites open to holidayers, but many popular spots have become illegal for camping.

All campers have been sent away from a spot on Chehalis River, well upstream from the highway, but swimming is still permitted by the Trans-Canada Highway bridge over the river.

Rangers today checked all side roads along the Shawinigan-Port Renfrew Road for campers, and made sure there were no camps at the Sooke potholes. Swimming, however, is still allowed at the potholes because they are reached by public road.

MARINE PARKS OPEN

Marine parks in the Gulf Islands are open, but haphazard camping by small boat operators on the many beaches of the island is prohibited.

All Gulf Islands up to and including Texada Island are affected by the closure order. "The number of fires we have had in the past few days indicated that a closure was called for," said a B.C. Forest Service spokesman.

'EXPLOSIVE'

Forests Minister Ray Williston authorized the general forest closure in the two most heavily-populated zones of the Vancouver Forest District Tuesday afternoon.

What forest officials called "explosive conditions" and a flare-up of old fires prompted the move—first closure this year.

The closure means no one may enter woods within zones 1 and 9, on the island and Mainland, for travel picnicking, berry picking, camping, or any other recreational activity.

Only travel along public highways is allowed, and camping in supervised provincial park sites. Lake fishing is allowed only where there is public access—a highway, for a boat. Boaters must land only at this point.

A parks branch official said today all island campsites in

Defeat Faces Plan to Drop CCF Leader

REGINA (CP)—Strong grass-roots opposition to a proposed CCF leadership compromise set leadership aspirants running harder than ever today.

The weight of opposition—evident from Ontario and Saskatchewan delegation caucuses Tuesday night—seemed certain to block passage of the proposal of the CCF national council that the socialist party's national convention abolish the title of national leader.

The Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia delegations were reported to be against the constitutional change. In addition, it was evident that CCF members of parliament were solidly opposed.

One Day Left to Get On B.C. Voters' List

Office Open Late

British Columbians have until midnight Thursday to get on the voters' lists for the Sept. 12 provincial election.

In Greater Victoria the registrar's office at 911 Gordon St. will remain open until that time.

Persons in the Esquimalt, Oak Bay, Victoria and Saanich polling districts may register there or at five sub-stations open until 5 p.m.

They are at Cunningham's Drug Store, Sidney; Royal Oak Pharmacy; Turnbull's Drug Store, Esquimalt, and Cudlipp's Store, Shawnigan Lake.

People who were on the voters' lists in the 1956 election and who have not moved, still are eligible to vote this time. If they have moved, or are not sure if they are on the lists, then they should contact the Greater Victoria registrar's office at EV 6-4711.

SIGNATURE

If they are not on the list, then a personal signature is required on application cards available at the registration centres.

"Husbands cannot sign for wives," said assistant electoral officer Sib Clark today.

He said people who have moved from one riding into another — say from Victoria into Oak Bay — and were formerly registered may either register or return to their former polling district and vote under the address at which they were originally registered.

Further provision will be announced later for absentee polling—that is for people caught away from their homes on Sept. 12.

Water Bomber Scores Hits Near Nanaimo

The Martin Mars water bomber based at Sprout Lake made three drops Tuesday afternoon on a forest fire near Nanaimo which were termed as satisfactory by men of MacMillan, Bloedel, and Powell River Ltd.

The fire broke out at 3 p.m. and soon was burning over MB-PR property and lands owned by John Gogo of Nanaimo. It was described as near extension, which is south-west of Nanaimo.

The big plane made its 7,000-gallon water pickups at Chemainus. It was reported the third trip was marred by trouble with the tank doors, which permitted about half the water to escape before it reached the fire.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Could you please tell me who owned the first car in Victoria? N.A.M.

A. The present coroner, Dr. E. C. Hart, who purchased a gas-driven car May 24, 1902.

Q. Could you please tell me where to send for a birth certificate? I was born in Scotland. C.C.D.

A. Write The Registrar, New Registry House, Edinburgh 2, Scotland. Charge for a full certificate, including parents' names and other details, is five shillings and threepence; for the shorter form, fee is two shillings and threepence.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

OLD SPANISH WRECK BRINGS DIVERS BACK

The amateur underwater explorers who discovered the now-famous "mystery wreck" in Sydney Inlet, on Vancouver Island's west coast, have returned for further wreck-hunting in B.C. waters.

Headed by Dr. George B. Cottrell of Portland, a team of five skin divers will leave Inner Harbor aboard the Seattle cruiser Cimba Thursday, weather permitting, for the Barkley Sound area.

There they plan to check out a report by a veteran fisherman that he spotted the wreck of a Spanish galleon in Pachena Bay 25 or 30 years ago.

THIRD BUS FOR BIG MUSIC TREAT

The Times' second "Bernstein Bus"—which will take Victoria youngsters and their parents to the special Leonard Bernstein Children's Concert at Vancouver Forum next Tuesday morning—sold out as rapidly as the first.

As a result, the newspaper has arranged for a third and final bus, carrying a total of 111 Victoria ticket-holders, to the unique Vancouver Festival performance.

Problem of space on the Tsawwassen ferry was surmounted this morning when assistant manager Ron Worley said: "This is a good idea. We will be happy to clear accommodation for all three of the special charters."

HI GOOD SEATS

From Vancouver, Festival manager Peter Bennett said: "We are all delighted with the response from Victoria. You can count on 111 good seats."

A point not made clear in previous announcements is that adults will now be accepted, whether accompanied by children or not.

The young people must have a "student card," which entitles them to a special rate. Package cost to them is $6.35 and to adults, $7.85, exclusive of meals en route.

Tickets must be picked up at Vancouver Island Coach Lines, 814 Wharf Street, either Friday or Saturday. Full loads of the three buses are required to benefit from the special charter rate.

The buses leave the Vancouver Island Coach Lines depot, adjoining the Black Ball ferry slip, at 8:10 a.m. Tuesday in time to catch the 9 a.m. Swartz Bay ferry. Concert starts at 11:30 a.m.

The buses will remain in Vancouver until the concert is over and return from Tsawwassen on the 3 p.m. sailing.

Accompanying the first two Victoria parties will be Times women's editor Beas Forbes and editorial secretary, Mrs. Elsie Edwards.

GRUBER GOING

Today, Victoria Symphony Orchestra conductor Hans Gruber accepted a Times invitation to accompany the Victoria caravan.

The Victoria maestro, who knows Bernstein well, spoke in glowing terms of his performance in broadening musical knowledge.

"To put it colloquially, Bernstein is a 'ball of fire,'" the young maestro told The Times. "I took a summer course with him at Tanglewood, Mass., in 1949, and have heard him conduct many times since. "He is marvellous—a very brilliant man."

Victorians who go along on the special cavalcade will see one of the two children's concerts which Bernstein has scheduled for 1960. With him is the 108-piece New York Philharmonic Orchestra, which is flying to Vancouver for its premier (already sold out) Monday evening.

Reservations for the third "Bernstein Bus" may be made with Mrs. Edwards at EV 2-3131.

In view of the shortage of time, prompt bookings are urged. It is expected that the last bus will be sold out by the time tickets go on sale at Vancouver Island Coach Lines Friday.

In applying for tickets, patrons will give their names, which will be checked against Times reservations.

AT LANGFORD

Fire-Hopping Day Spent By Volunteers

Langford's volunteer firemen were kept on the hop Tuesday by widely scattered bush fires.

Starting at 12:15 p.m. with a 30-acre blaze on Goldstream, the volunteers had their work cut out for the rest of the day and most of the night.

At 5:15 p.m. the Langford tank truck was sent to help out Colwood fire department with a two-acre blaze that broke out in the 3700 block Metchesin Road, at Albert Head.

Fifteen minutes later, another Langford crew went racing to Goldstream Provincial Park campsite to douse a fire that had caught fire, probably as a result of a cigarette butt.

At 6 p.m. the Langford fire dispatcher sent another crew out to Hall's Boathouse, at the foot of the Malahat, to nip in the bud a roadside blaze that was being fanned by strong winds and was about to "crown" out of control.

An hour later, the tank truck was sent back to the Goldstream Avenue fire for three hours and several firefighters stayed there overnight as a fire guard.

Mild Polio Hits Colwood Woman

A Colwood woman who had been under observation for some time as a polio suspect was confirmed as having a mild form of the disease at Royal Jubilee Hospital Tuesday.

She is Mrs. Hubert W. Ridley, 410 Terrahue, who is in satisfactory condition and does not require a respirator, the hospital said.

The woman is the 14th person under treatment or observation for polio at Jubilee, the Vancouver Island centre for all cases.

teers and conscripts — battled the blaze Tuesday afternoon as it raced through scrub brush and young trees between the old Island Highway and Trans-Canada Highway.

Frames destroyed two chicken houses and ate their way to within a few feet of several homes in the 1100 block Goldstream. A shift in the wind saved the situation.

Furniture was moved from several homes as families evacuated them during the height of the blaze around 1:30 p.m. Mrs. P. J. Edmond, 1198 Goldstream, collapsed from heat and excitement after helping move all the furniture from her home. But she was revived quickly in a neighbor's home.

Norman B. Bell, 1144 Goldstream, lost a chicken house to the fire which also swept close to his home.

Men and women in the neighborhood pitched in with garden hoses and shovels and children slapped wet sacks on drifting embers whenever they landed.

Mrs. Helen Bacon, 1205 Goldstream, gathered all the neighborhood tots into her home at the side of Langford Lake and kept them occupied while also serving up cold drinks for men on the fire line.

Among residents who almost lost their homes were Mr. and Mrs. James Baynes, 1152 Goldstream and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Goodmans, 1180 Goldstream.

Langford firemen today maintained a watch on a smouldering 30-acre area where a fierce bush fire Tuesday came close to destroying about a dozen Goldstream Avenue homes.

About 80 persons — including firemen, neighbors, volunteers and conscripts — battled the blaze Tuesday afternoon as it raced through scrub brush and young trees between the old Island Highway and Trans-Canada Highway.

SAINT JOHN, N.B.—Gayle Hitchens and Suzanne Foulds of Vancouver were both beaten today in the second round of the Canadian Women's Open golf championship. Miss Hitchens was beaten by Gail Harvey of Ontario, 3 and 2, while Miss Foulds lost to Joanne Goulet, Regina, 1 up.

Resignation of Belgian Gov't Likely

The sources said Eyskens told King Baudouin today that a new government program was essential for the country.

NATIVE RIVALS BATTLE

Lumumba Injured In Congo Rioting

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba was injured tonight while trying to help quell riots which broke out between his followers and rival Federalist groups of Africans.

The rioting started when Lumumba's United Congo followers tried to enter the headquarters of the Federalist Abako Party leaders in the Bendale district of the capital.

The Abako members resisted the forced entrance of the Lumumba group and fighting broke out.

Abako vice-president Vital Moanda was injured along with two Abako guards at the doorway.

Hearing of the fight, which rapidly attracted hundreds of onlookers, Lumumba jumped into a car and drove from his residence to the Bendale sector.

Arriving at the Abako party headquarters, Lumumba tried to calm the mob which by then had risen to several thousand and was battling with police.

Lumumba jumped out of his car, but ran into Abako supporters. He was slapped around and punched in the face. But he dived back into his car and drove away, presumably back to his residence. The rioting was the second report of violence during the day. Earlier, United Nations sources said five Tunisian soldiers of the UN contingent were killed in skirmishes with tribesmen in the Lulubourg area of the Kasai Province three days ago.

Meanwhile Katanga Premier Moise Thombe told United Nations Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld today he is ready to start negotiations for the entry of United Nations forces into the province.

Thombe's reply said Katanga was "anxious to contribute to a peaceful solution at all times."

'Lady Chatterley' Defenders Scored

TORONTO (CP)—Two Canadian authors contributed to the spread of adultery, prostitution and venereal disease by defending D.H. Lawrence's Lady Chatterley's Lover in a Montreal court, the director of the Health League of Canada says.

In an editorial in the league's magazine, Health, Dr. Gordon Bates said novelists Morley Callaghan and Hugh MacLennan "should have their heads read."

The authors had argued before sessions Judge T. A. Fontaine that the Lawrence novel was not obscene. The judge subsequently banned the book in Quebec.

Interviewed today, Dr. Bates said he thinks Callaghan, MacLennan and many university English professors

Woods Closely Guarded

B.C. Forest Service rangers and their staffs today patrolled wooded areas of Vancouver Island south of Bowser to evict campers still in the woods in spite of a forest closure which went into effect at midnight.

There are plenty of organized and private campsites open to holidayers, but many popular spots have become illegal for camping.

All campers have been sent away from a spot on Chehalis River, well upstream from the highway, but swimming is still permitted by the Trans-Canada Highway bridge over the river.

Rangers today checked all side roads along the Shwamish-Port Renfrew Road for campers, and made sure there were no camps at the Sooke potholes. Swimming, however, is still allowed at the potholes because they are reached by public road.

MARINE PARKS OPEN

Marine parks in the Gulf Islands are open, but haphazard camping by small boat operators on the many beaches of the island is prohibited.

All Gulf Islands up to and including Texada Island are affected by the closure order. The closure means no one may enter woods within zones 1 and 9, on the Island and Mainland, for travel picnicking, berry-picking, camping, or any other recreational activity.

Only travel along public highways is allowed, and camping in supervised provincial park sites. Lake fishing is allowed only where there is public access—a highway—for a boat. Boaters must land only at this point.

A parks branch official said today all island campsites in

Yanks Blank Chicago 6-0

New York Yankees won the crucial third game of their series with the Chicago White Sox today, 6-0, to move back into a two and one-half game lead in the American League race.

Bill Skowron hit his 21st home run as the Yanks collected 10 hits off Herb Score and Turk Lown. Art Ditmar was the winner.

New York 6, Chicago 0. H-R-B: Skowron (11-7), L. Score (3-4), H.R. NY, Skowron (11). Batters: 1. W. Walker (3-3), L. Burnside (3-7), H.R. Balt. Brandt (10), Nicholson (4), Gentile (13), Det. Cash (12).

The counter-attack was being mobilized from Luang Prabang, official residence of King Savang Vatthana, about 140 miles to the north of Vientiane, the reports said.

(A later report here said there was fighting in Vientiane and shots had been heard for about two hours.)

It was not known how many troops the rebels had at their command. However, information reaching Bangkok through diplomatic channels said they had armed all commercial aircraft in Vientiane and had control of all strategic facilities in the city.

To Clear Status Before Election

By FRANK RUTTER

The Public Utilities Commission today announced a public hearing Sept. 2 to consider the status of the Pacific Northern Railway.

The announcement threw the political world into a tizzy.

It called on the PNR to show cause why it should not require a certificate from the PUC before starting construction.

It revived a legal hassle which was temporarily quelled June 28 when Premier Bennett chopped down a tree to mark the start of the 700-mile Wenner-Gren railway to the Yukon border.

TEST OF POWER

It paved the way for a test of the power of the Public Utilities Act against the Railways Act, under which the PNR claims to have started construction.

On July 5, the PUC issued a lengthy statement of reasons for dismissing a PNR application for a certificate of convenience and necessity.

Now it seeks a hearing to establish whether or not the company is legally bound to request a certificate.

"COLLUSION"

CCF Leader Robert Strachan immediately branded the PUC's latest move "collusion" with the Social Credit Party.

"Any such hearings will be a hoax and are intended only as window dressing for the Social Credit political machine in this election campaign," he said.

"It is only a few weeks since we were told that no hearings were necessary."

He said he would be unable to attend because of election commitments.

NO STRINGS

PUC member Percy E. George denied any election strings.

"The date was set before we knew of the election," he said. "By coincidence about 48 hours after we made up our minds the Sept. 12 announcement came along."

Dr. H. F. Angus, chairman of the PUC, and architect of the July 5 statement, is in Terrace today, and couldn't be reached by the Times.

The hearing will be held at 10 a.m. Sept. 2 in the Vancouver Public Library.

Mr. George said it would be "up to the chairman of the meeting at that time" to decide if briefs could be presented by "interested parties."

He added:

"It is not a matter of deciding whether it is desirable to put a railway up there."

The hearing is to decide the legal status of the railway and the work it has so far accomplished.

EXPULLED

The Soviet Union today ordered the expulsion of Col. Edwin M. Kerton, above, air attaché at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow, and warned his assistant, Capt. Irving T. MacDonald. Both were accused of photographing military objectives and engaging in "activities which are incompatible with the status of a member of the diplomatic staff." The two were apprehended at Kurgan, which is near Sverdlovsk where U-2 flyer Powers came down on a reconnaissance flight May 1. (AP Wirephoto.)

Defeat Faces Plan to Drop CCF Leader

REGINA (CP)—Strong grass-roots opposition to a proposed CCF leadership compromise set leadership aspirants running harder than ever today.

The weight of opposition—evident from Ontario and Saskatchewan delegation caucuses Tuesday night—seemed certain to block passage of the proposal of the CCF national council that the socialist party's national convention abolish the title of national leader.

The Manitoba, Alberta and British Columbia delegations were reported to be against the constitutional change. In addition, it was evident that CCF members of parliament were solidly opposed.

Earlier in the day Dominico Lanfranco, 54, of Qualicum Beach, died after his car struck an abutment on a bridge in Cathedral Grove, near Cameron Lake.

Dr. C. Pitts, Port Alberni coroner, was scheduled to make an inquiry into the crash.

John Everall, 70, of Willow Point, near Campbell River, died Tuesday in Campbell River General Hospital of injuries suffered Sunday when his car crashed into a telephone pole near the village and was demolished. He was alone in the car at the time.

Still missing and presumed drowned is Nicholas Brulj, seaman from a Dutch freighter, who has not been seen since he went for a swim around his berthed ship at Port Alberni Saturday.

SIDNEY—Decision to bar distribution of advertising leaflets at the Anacortes ferry wharf was reversed by the Village Commission after businessmen protested.

Eric McMorran had been prohibited from giving out pamphlets in contravention of a village bylaw, but businessmen said he was directing motorists through the village and helping trade.

CURFEW MUFFLES GO-CARTS

PORT ALBERT—Go-carts racing on a newly-built track in the Glenwood area here have found themselves muffled by a temporary curfew.

There were 63 signatures on a petition to city council to license the miniature racers. Many of the signers were mill workers who complained the open exhausts on the little cars' one-cylinder engines gave them no chance to sleep.

Mayor Lorah Jordan, who admitted he said founding of the track in the first place was "a heck of a good idea," told council he did not realize the tiny speedsters made so much noise.

They are not banned completely. They can run between the hours of 1 and 9 p.m., while members of the Alberni Valley Go-Kart Association test mufflers which they hope will permit unlimited operation.

RIVER EROSION IRKS DUNCAN

'Better Keep After Them'

(From Duncan Bureau)

Duncan city council, which holds the provincial highways department responsible for erosion in Cowichan River east of Silver Bridge, will continue to press for preventive action.

The department informed council this week it assumes no responsibility for the erosion, but Ald. James H. Saunders claims the trouble is caused by the river bed having been made so wide. "We had better keep after them," said Mayor J. T. Dobson.

The city is requesting bulldozer work on the river bank during low water in an effort to prevent further trouble.

FOUR HOURS

Ald. James A. F. Mutter brought the matter to council's attention this week when he said he had seen one truck parked from 8:50 a.m. to 1:10 p.m.

"It doesn't take four hours to unload one truck," he said. "The parked truck forced pedestrians to detour from the sidewalk to avoid the unloading ramp and walk on the travelled portion of the street," he said.

Ald. S. H. Saunders complimented the citizens of Duncan on the fact that "they are pay-

GROWING PAINS

Ald. Saunders said the water pressure in the hospital hill area was low most of the day.

"If I have a tap on in my basement I can't draw water upstairs," Ald. Saunders said.

"We're just expanding so fast we can't supply the water," said Mayor Dobson. "It's not garden-sprinkling but the fact that we have so many water users."

AILING AMATEUR BANDIT ACCOMPLISHES PURPOSE

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The gaunt little man shoved a gun and a note at teller Marjorie Sances.

The note said: "No alarm. Give me your cash."

Mrs. Sances pushed over a stack of bills.

"No, not that much," he said.

She handed him the top bill, a ten.

The gunman wrote on a slip of paper: "Received $10. Dr. Scott."

Then he walked out the door of the Savings and Loan Company into the arms of two policemen.

Dr. Gordon Elmer Scott, 61, once a $30,000-a-year chiropractor in Beverly Hills, says he tipped off police because "I wanted to be caught."

He says he believed the medical care he would receive in a federal prison was his only hope for life.

He has lost one eye from cancer and says he has cirrhosis of the liver—an ailment he blames on his consumption of a fifth of liquor a day.

After being booked on suspicion of robbery, he learned that he may not get into prison after all. The FBI has decided not to prosecute.

The case has been turned over to the city prosecutor and Dr. Scott, a first offender, may even be placed on probation.

Even so, he'll get the medical help he needs. Social workers have promised medical and psychiatric care, in or out of jail.

FOR POWER LINE

Permission Granted 4 Years Late

(From Duncan Bureau)

Four years after spanning Georgia Strait and a good part of Vancouver Island with a 132,000-volt submarine and aerial power line, B.C. Electric has been given a right of way for the line over the Maple Bay foreshore.

Reeve D.C. Morton this week told North Cowichan municipal council, which granted the belated permission, that legally the strip of foreshore had never been granted.

The power line from the mainland goes under the sea at Tsawwassen for a 16-mile crossing of Georgia Strait by submarine cable, crosses Galiano by aerial cable, goes under sea for three miles to Salt Spring Island and makes the last water crossing over San Juan Narrows by overhead span to connect with the conventional land line on Vancouver Island.

It was built in the summer of 1956. Total cost of the project was in excess of $3,000,000.

OTTAWA (CP)—Frank McGee (PC—York Scarborough) today withdrew from the Commons order paper his bill providing for abolition of the death penalty for murder.

Mr. McGee and Mr. Winch are expected to reintroduce the bill at the next session.

that the company was proceeding under that jurisdiction.

The premier officiated at the "start" of construction June 23 two days before an agreement between his government and the interests of Swedish financier Axel Wenner-Gren expired.

The agreement set a June 30 deadline for start of construction.

UNDECIDED

Mr. George said today: "It's undecided from a legal point of view whether the company has engaged in or is about to engage in construction."

He said two basic difficulties facing the PUC are:

At what stage the PNR becomes a utility under the Public Act, and if the work done so far affects that; And the fact that no other railway has ever applied to or fallen under the PUC's jurisdiction before.

"For weeks we have been pondering on how to proceed on this proposition," said Mr. George.

The earlier PUC statement said it was not considering seeking a certificate because "action by order on its own motion in the absence of a complaint would serve no useful purpose at this time."

No complaint about the PNR starting work has been received.

But Mr. George stressed that the Sept. 2 hearing was not on the feasibility of the railway, but on its legal status as a utility.

If it is a utility and qualifies for a certificate of convenience a separate hearing will probably be called later to decide the award of such a certificate.

SKEPTICAL of rising cost of social assistance in Duncan.

Ald. James H. Saunders suggested this week city is subsidizing delinquents, and that "we are not paying enough attention to whom we're paying this money to." Social assistance cost Duncan $4,513 for first six months of year, or 60 per cent more than in same period last year.

CURFEW MUFFLES GO-CARTS

PORT ALBERNI—Go-carts racing on a newly-built track in the Glenwood area here have found themselves muffled by a temporary curfew.

There were 63 signatures on a petition to city council to silence the miniature racers. Many of the signers were mill workers who complained the open exhausts on the little cars' one-cylinder engines gave them no chance to sleep.

Mayor Loran Jordan, who admitted he said founding of the track in the first place was "a heck of a good idea," told council he did not realize the tiny speedsters made so much noise.

They are not banned completely. They can run between the hours of 1 and 9 p.m., while members of the Alberni Valley Go-Kart Association test mufflers which they hope will permit unlimited operation.

RIVER EROSION IRKS DUNCAN

'Better Keep After Them'

(From Duncan Bureau)

Duncan city council, which holds the provincial highways department responsible for erosion in Cowichan River east of Silver Bridge, will continue to press for preventive action.

The department informed council this week it assumes no responsibility for the erosion, but Ald. James H. Saunders claims the trouble is caused by the river bed having been made so wide. "We had better keep after them," said Mayor J. T. Dobson.

The city is requesting bulldozer work on the river bank during low water in an effort to prevent further trouble.

FOUR HOURS

Ald. James A. F. Mutter brought the matter to council's attention this week when he said he had seen one truck parked from 8:50 a.m. to 1:10 p.m.

"It doesn't take four hours to unload one truck," he said. The parked truck forced pedestrians to detour from the sidewalk to avoid the unloading ramp and walk on the travelled portion of the street, he said.

Ald. S. H. Saunders complimented the citizens of Duncan on the fact that "they are pay-

GROWING PAINS

Ald. Saunders said the water pressure in the hospital hill area was low most of the day.

"If I have a tap on in my basement I can't draw water upstairs," Ald. Saunders said. "We're just expanding" so fast we can't supply the water," said Mayor Dobson. "It's not garden sprinkling but the fact that we have so many water users."

Water Extension Asked for School

DUNCAN—Reeve D. C. Morton of North Cowichan has been approached by a group of Sherman Road residents asking the municipality to assist in a plan to extend city of Duncan water service to the new Junior High School under construction at Someros.

Reeve Morton today said a meeting will be held in the near future between the city, Cowichan School Board and members of the North Cowichan Council.

The school board has taken two surveys for two alternate routes for extension of city water service. The cost of extension would be about $11,000 and the school board is acting "only as a another property owner."

The department of education indicated earlier that the board should not act as a body setting up a water service.

A third alternative would be a well and pumping system on the site. Pacific Wells have guaranteed sufficient volume of water from one or two deep wells at a cost of $1,500.
